SHORT SESSION OF COURT

Only a few Cases Tried During First Week of Court

ONLY SIX TRUE BILLS

The Grand and Traverse Jurors Were Discharged Tuesday Afternoon

REPORT OF THE GRAND JURY GIVEN

The regular February term of Court convened Monday morning at 10 o'clock with Judge Ellis L. Orvis on the bench. Prothonotary Kimport and Register Tuten were in their accustomed places. The official court stenographer is Gilbert S. Barrows, Mayor of our neighboring city of Sunbury.

The first thing in order was the presentation of various petitions.

A petition was presented for Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Dunham, of Howard, asking that a little girl they have taken to raise be legally adopted as their child and heir.

There were three subpoenas in divorce issued as follows: Viola Mullen vs John E. Mullen; Bella Jackson vs Jacob Jackson; Maggie Irwin vs William T. Irwin.

The petition of the Library committee to have their account confirmed was presented by J. C. Meyer, Esq.

The Grand Jury was then called and sworn after which William H. Noll, Jr., of Pleasant Gap, was appointed foreman. The usual charge to the grand jury was delivered by the Court.

The Constables of the different townships then made their reports after which the list of traverse jurors was called.

The first case called was a civil case tqat of Thomas Boal vs W. H. Moyer. The parties reside in Potter township and it seems that in Dec. 1906 the defendent bought 22 bushels of apples ot 40 cents a bushel. Later he discovered the apples were frozen and refused to pay for same. The jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendant.

Commonwealth vs Walter Auman, charged with betrayal. Prosecutor Estella B. Auman. The parties are from Penn township. Defendant plead not guilty but the jury found him guilty and the usual sentence was imposed.

Commonwealth vs Jacob Jackson, charge malicious mischief. Prosecutor, Mrs. Bella Jackson. Verdict guilty.

Commonwealth vs Jacob Jackson, charge assault and battery. Plead not guilty. Verdict guilty.

H. R. King vs J. K. Palmer & Co. This was a civil action to recover $200 wages due the former from J. K. Palmer on State Road at Philipsburg. The work claimed was done in Feb and March 1907. Verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $1.00.

Commonwealth vs John Gordon, charged with larceny. Waived finding of Grand Jury and plead guilty.

The Grand Jury finished their work Tuesday afternoon and were discharged. Their report was as follows:

To the Honorable the Judges of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Centre.

February Sessions, 1908.

The Grand Inquest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, inquiring for the County of Centre, in all matters relating to the same, do respectfully report:

That they acted upon seven (7) bills of indictment of which six (6) were found true bills, and one ignored.

We beg leave to report that we have visited and inspected the County buildings and find them in good condition.

We further report that the walk leading from the Court house to the County Jail is in need of repairs and recommend that the same be investigated by the proper authorities.

We further report the walk in front of Monument west of Court house is in bad condition and would recommend that new concrete walk be built to correspond.

We respectfully tender our thanks to the Honorable Judges and District Attorney for their courtesy and assistance rendered us during our deliberations.

Dated February 25, 1908.

A BRILLIANT RECEPTION

Daughters of the American Revolution Gave an elaborate Reception Saturday Evening.

The social function of the winter season was the reception given at the Fraternity house on Saturday evening by the Daughters of the American Revolution to the G. A. R., Company B, Fifth Regiment, with the staff officers, the Sons of Cincinnati, the Sons of the Revolution, the Spanish war veterans and the many other guests from town whom the Daughters were individually permitted to invite.

The reception was unique in its character, beautiful, entertaining and pleasing and the many guests of the most delightful occasion with one accord pronounced the event one long to be remembered. The spacious rooms and corriders were completely enveloped in the decorations of the National colors and the scene, as one entered the main hall was at once impressive and inspiring, for under those proud colors were gathered one of the most representative assemblages of guests that Bellefonte could produce, the citizens and soldiers, the old and the young, all beaming with smiles born of festive scenes, enlivened by the entrancing strains from Christy Smith's famous orchestra. The appearance of the grand old veterans of the G. A. R. in full uniform sent a thrill through every heart and their salute to the Daughters and the salute by the Daughters gave an inspiring character to the whole event.

Then later in the evening the guest were thrilled again with a feeling of gratitude and respect to the old soldiers when they joined in a rousing "three cheers" for the "old vets" in response to the "three cheers" given by the latter for the hostesses of the evening. The delicious refreshments were much enjoyed as they were so gracefully served by the pretty daughters of the Daughters in their costumes of "ye early days." Washington was there in spirit if not in person on his anniversary evening. The bunch of red cherries, the dainty flag and D. A. R. insignia worn by each Daughter were attractive and appropriate. Valuable Revolutionary relics were on exhibition, including an old flint lock rifle, and other interesting mural decorations were a photograph of the Bellefonte Chapter's "Real Daughter" and large pictures of George Washington, Lincoln, McKinley, Curtin, Hastings and Gen. Beaver.

Another feature of the evening's program was the singing of America and the Star Spangler Banner at the entrance and at the departure of the G. A. R. The festivities were terminated with an old fashioned Virginia Reel in which many of the older guests recalled the happiness of by gone days. Some of the officers of the Chapter received in their very happy way, namely, Miss Helen Overton, Regent, Mrs. Ellis L. Orvis, Vice-Regent, Mrs. John Porter Lyon, Treasurer, and Mrs. Jennie Hastings and Mrs. Bogle, of the Board of Managers. Words are not at command to adequately commend the Daughters as a Chapter for the remarkable success of the reception in every particular. The "Frat" boys were very helpful to the Daughters and kept "open doors" to all visitors circulating through the building. Among the G. A. R. veterans present were General Beaver, General Curtin and Mayor Harris. The return of the Daughters' Reception will be anticipated another year with the greatest of pleasure.

J. Wilson Cole.

Word has been received of the death of J. Wilson Cole, of Louisville, Col. He passed away on February 20, but the cause of his death is not known. He was born in Centre county thirty-two years ago and was the son of E. T. and Ellen Cole. He moved west about four or five years ago.

He has been married but a short time and is survived by his wife and the following brothers and sisters: William, of Colorado; Lawrence and Mrs. Aze Koontz, of Dayton, O., John, of Zion; Mrs. H. E. McClincy, David and Samuel, of Pleasant Gap, and Mrs. A. G. Robb, of Altoona.

The National Protective Legion

To comply with the ruling of the Ins. Department of the different states the N. P. L. convention last Sept. passed an amendment to pay dividends according to a mathamatical calculation.

This makes the dividends less, but meets the requirements of the insurance laws and is commended by the New York department in its annual report.

The N. P. L. is alright financially and safe in every respect. 2-28-3t.

SOCIALISTS HAVE CLASH

Uniformed Men, Foot and Horse Prevent Scheduled Meeting

TWO ARRESTS MADE.

New York Editor had Been Billed to Talk on "Red Sunday of St. Petersburg."

THEY CLAIM LIBERTY OF SPEECH.

Philadelphia, Pa. Feb. 24th.—Socialists and police clashed on Sunday when the authorities ordered the abandonment of a mass-meeting scheduled for New Royal Hall, at Seventh and Morris streets. The meeting had been widely advertised. Hundreds of socialists sought admission to the hall. Squads of patio men, assisted by mounted men, kept the crowd on the move. It was feared that the meeting would result in a riot similar to the one on Broad street on Thursday.

The socialists were loud in their denunciation of the authorities. They assembled on the corners and gesticulated freely. Several spoke loudly in foreign tongues to groups which clustered about them. Fearing that the speakers were exciting the crowds the police broke up the groups and kept them moving. Two men who attempted to enter the hall after they had been ordered away were arrested.

These men were taken to the Moyamensing avenue police station, and there they described themselves as Jacob Levin and Pen Helfind, both of Seventh and Popular streets. They were charged with breach of the peace by Policeman.

Director Clay was asked the grounds on which the police had assumed the authority to close the meeting.

"The police obeyed orders," the Director replied. "They did their duty. Further than that I do not care to discuss the matter. If the Socialist party is going to institute court proceedings, as has been reported, I may have something to say when I see a case carried into court."

There is no law on the statute books prohibiting an orderly crowd from assembling on Sunday for the free discussion of questions of mutual benefit. The law only prohibits public entertainments on Sunday, Chartered organizations, however, can sell liquor and give theatrical performances on Sunday as well as week days.

The meeting was to be addressed by Jacob Fliegenbaum, editor of the Jewish Daily Forward, a New York newspaper with a branch office in this city. His subject was to be "The Red Sunday at St. Petersburg," and he had intended to deal with the terrible day when the police shot and killed many Russians. Saturday was the anniversary of that date.

Dynamite Explodes.

Frank Kunes of Beech Creek, superintendent of the Centre Clay and Brick company was frightfully injured by an explosion of dynamite Friday evening. Seventeen sticks of dynamite had been laid up against a railroad tie to thaw out. Some of the sticks caught fire, probably causing them to fall down and explode when Mr. Kunes was only a few feet distant. He was found lying on the ground unconscious and it was at first thought he was dead. He rallied sufficiently that it was not necessary to take him to the hospital. No bones were broken but his flesh was badly bruised. Both eyes were swollen shut and gravel and splinters penetrated the face, two large splinters being removed from the bridge of the nose. His hearing was affected but his sight was unimpaired. The other men were working down an embankment and the flying debris went over their heads.

William Corman

William Corman, a farmer of upper Marion township, died at his home Sunday morning after a weeks suffering with asthma and heart trouble. Deceased was 59 years of age and life long resident of that community. He was married to Calisea Hoy, a daughter of John S. Hoy.

Funeral services were held at the house this morning and interment were made in the Luthern cemetery at Jacksonville.

Elizabeth Boal Thompson.

Bellefonte people were grieved Friday morning to learn of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Boal Thompson, wife of John I. Thompson, of Lemont, which occurred Thursday night at 11.35 o'clock. Last Tuesday morning Mrs. Thompson was stricken with paralysis and never recovered consciousness and death relieved her suffering at the time stated.

Elizabeth Boal was born at Boalsburg, this county, on January 8, 1846 making her 62 years of age at the time of her death. Thirty-eight years ago she was married to John I. Thompson, who located in Lemont where they have since resided in happiness and contentment.

Mrs. Thompson leaves to mourn her death her husband and five children, as follows: Mary I., married to Dr. O. H. Shaeffer, of Altoona; Helen, wife of Geo. M. Sellers, of Helena, Mont.; George Boal Thompson, of Alto, this county, Elizabeth Boal Thompson, at home, and Charles M. Thompson of Lewistown. She is also survived by one sister Mrs. John Hamilton of State College, and one brother Hamil Boal of West Va. and one half brother James Boal.

The deceased was a member of the Presbyterian church, in which she lived a consistent life. She had a host of friends in this part of the county and she will be greatly missed by her many intimate acquaintances.

Funeral services were held at the house Monday afternoon at 2 30 o'clock and interment were made at the Branch cemetery.

Odd Fellows Banquet.

The sixty second anniversary of the organization of Centre Lodge No. 153 Odd Fellows of Bellefonte, was celebrated in their hall Friday evening with a banquet by the members and friends of the order. The banquet opened at eight o'clock, and was enlivened at intervals with music by Dietricks orchestra. It is estimated that there were about 350 persons present to enjoy the festivities of the table and the flow of soul. Mr. J. Kennedy Johnson acted as toastmaster and addresses were made by J. C. Meyer, James Schofield, J. S. McCarger, F. E. Naginey, D. F Fortney, Revs. Ambrose M. Schmidt, D. Barshinger and Rev. F. W. Berry. Field Secretary Weaver, of the Sunbury orphans home made an address of interest When the time for closing arrived all joined in singing that good old patriotic hymn "America."

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

32 men attended the Bible club supper and study Tuesday. A most enjoyable social time was had, followed by a profitable study under the direction of Rev. F. W. Barry, who substituted for Dr. Platts, the regular teacher. After the adjournment of the Bible class, a class in electricty was organized with W. R. Buesler, superintendent of the local Electric Light Company as instructor. This class has an enrollment of 18 men.

The basket ball game between the Y. M. C. A. regulars and the Y. M. C. A. scrubs which also occurred Tuesday evening attracted a fair sized crowd, and without doubt was the most exciting game of the season. Dr. J. A. Platts refereed the game to the satisfaction of all present. The game resulted in a victory for the regulars by the score of 52 to 21. The regulars stand ready to meet the scrubs again in a contest in which the regulars will agree to make two goals to every goal made by the scrubs. Should these teams come together on this proposition a hot game is assured.

The State College scrubs will play the Y. M. C. A. regulars in the local gymnasium Friday evening and it will be a game well worth seeing.

Death's Doings.

Andrew Whitehill, a veteran of the Civil War died at his home in Lemont Saturday at the age 68 years. He served his country in Company C, 148 Reg. Pa. Volunteers. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

ISRAEL ALBRIGHT.

Israel Albright, a resident of Scotia, died at his home at one o'clock Saturday afternoon. He was aged 67 years. When a young man he enlisted in his country's cause and served in the 49 th Reg. Pa. Volunteers. Funeral were held Tuesday afternoon and interment was made in the Shiloh cemetery.

RECEIVERSHIPS ARE TO END

All the Westinghouse Companies About to Shake Them

ONE HAS DONE SO

Orders Which Have Been Received for Machinery Constitute Hopeful Index

THEY ARE NOW ON FIRM BASIS

Pittsburg, Pa. Feb. 25.—With one corporation given back to the stockholders, another ready for the same emancipation from receivership and with big orders coming in fast, the Westinghouse interests are feeling better. In fact, their officials assert that in only a few weeks things will be running along, "as if nothing happened." Receivers of the Westinghouse Lamp Company of Trenton, N. J., were instructed by court yesday to turn the property over to the stockholders. It is expected the Westinghouse Machine Company will receive a similar order within the next few days, and that all the other companies likewise will be released.

So steadly have orders been coming in since the first of the year that, it is announced, the big plants at East Pittsburg and Wilmerding will roon be running at their normal pace. Only yesterday an order was received for the construction of two big electric generators for the Nevada Power Company for use in operating mining plants at Goldfield, Nev. In addition to this orders were received for a large amount of accessory machinery.

It has been announced that actions will soon be taken to emancipate all the Westinghouse companies that have been tied up temporarily with receiverships.

Improvements in affairs of the Westinghouse Machine Company is declared to be doubly significent—that that concern is in fine shape, and that industrial business in the country generally is reviving. That big orders for machinery have been received has been pointed to as a sure index that manufacturers consider the outlook as justifying the expenditure of money for equipment "to keep up with orders."

Frederick Smith.

Saturday evening about 9:30 o'clock the hand of death entered the home of Mrs. Sara Elizabeth Smith on Bishop street and took hence a son Frederick Smith. The decessed was born in Bellefonte a little over 37 years ago and had resided here most of his life time.

About seven years ago he went to Pittsburg to work at his trade that of a painter and paper hanger and while there developed a serious throat trouble. Two years ago he returned to Bellefonte in the hopes of relief but his affliction became more serious and finally consumption laid hold of him and caused his death.

Surviving him are his mother, Mrs. Sara Smith, and the following brothers and sisters; Charles S., Christie, William, Alice, Bessie and Daisy.

Funeral services were held at the house Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock and were private. Rev. J. Allison Platts officiating. Interment were made in the Union cemetery.

Look for Them.

The Thespians, the dramatic organization of the Penna. State College will be here Saturday night Feb. 29, 1908. This year they are playing the college farce comedy "The Toastmaster." The play deals with the great rivalry between the two first classes, usually the sophmore and freshmen. The Freshmen kidnap the toastmaster of the Sophmore class banquet and securely hide him until the time of the banquet. Meanwhile the toastmaster's room-mate, in order to see his sweetheart, disguises himself as a servant girl and applies for a position as cook in the home of one of the professors, father of his fiance. While here he discovers the toastmaster and thus insures the success of his class banquet besides winning the love of his sweetheart. Don't fail to see this funny comedy. Deals throughout with college life and sport and is brimful of wit and humor. Prices 25, 35 and 50 cents. Don't forget.

Death of Dr. Joseph Jones.

Dr. Joseph Jones, the well known veterinary surgeon, died at the Bellefonte hospital on Wednesday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock after a lingering illness. Last Thanksgiving day he suffered a severe attack of grippe which resulted in a complication of diseases. About four weeks ago he was admitted to the hospital for treatment but all efforts to save his life were unavailing.

Joseph Jones was born in England and came to this country in 1881. On the 25th of this month he would have been 44 years of age. He had been practicing his profession for the past eighteen years, but located in Bellefonte about five years ago. His family did not reside here till several years afterward. By his kind disposition the doctor won many warm friends in Bellefonte who regret his untimely death. Surviving him are his wife and the following children: Mrs. Anna Fatzinger, Lawrence Albert, Dolly, Mildred, Margaret, Evelyn, and one little grandson, Joseph.

Funeral services were held from the late home on Friday evening and the remains were taken to Watsontown Saturday forenoon, where interment was made.

A Man at His Best.

"If any man will come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me daily."

These words of our Saviour are thrice repeated in his gospel. They plainly teach that self-denial is the prime condition of Christian discipleship; the first step in a consecrated service for Christ. They clearly show that there is no safety for any one, but dangerous exposure in a departure from Christ's holy example and sacred instruction.

What he teaches in the gospel is likewise apostolic. St. Paul says to all Christians, "Be ye followers of me, even as I am also of Christ." If I do anything to make my brother stumble that I will not do while the world standeth." An uplift by the Christian brotherhood is what our poor fallen world needs most of all. A man is at his best as he "daily" approaches a little more closely to the man of Galilee who "went about doing good."

High School Contest.

The annual contest for the prizes offered by the Daughters of the American Revolution to the public school pupils, took place in the High School Monday afternoon in the presence of a large number of representatives of this organization. The room was tastefully decorated with the national colors. The whole lending an air of charm and patriotism to the exercises of the hour. The contestants eizgt in number were as follow: Misses Helen Hartranft, Mary Hicklen, Crilly Robb, Lucille Wetzel, and Messrs. Horace Hartranft, Harold Hollabaugh, Harris Olewine and Harry Valentine. After careful consideration of the essays presented the committee awarded the prizes of $5 each to Miss Crilly Robb, daughter of Mrs. Herman Robb and Mr. Harris Olewine son of Mr. and Mrs. John I. Olewine.

Evidence Against Hotels.

Williamsport Pa., Feb. 25th.—It has become known that a large number of remonstrances will soon be filed against the granting of licenses to many of the applicants at the March license court. Evidence has been gathered, it is said against about 30 hotels and wholesale houses in Lycoming county. Some of the information was obtained by the Law and Order society officers previous to the raid against the slot machines and sporting houses, while other matter was secured by local persons. The March license term will probably be the most interesting in a number of years. There are 130 applications for license, eight less than last year.

Cause of "Rain" in Moving Pictures.

Moving picture films are practically spoiled long before their life of usefulness should end because of the "rain" which blots out the clearness. This injury comes from the continuous winding and rewinding of the film through the machine at the rate of a foot a second, forming static electricity. The electricity attracts all the particles of dust and dirt floating in the atmosphere to the film, and in pulling the film up tight these particles scratch, hence the "rain."

Married—Mr. Arthur N. Vonada and Miss K. Lizzie Shaeffer, both of Zion, were quietly married at the Reformed parsonage Wednesday evening by the Rev. Ambrose M. Schmidt. Both are very popular young people at Zion and have the best wishes of their many friends.

FOREIGN DISTURBANCE

1000 Paraders Precipitate a Riot on Broad Street Philadelphia

SCORE OF PEOPLE HURT

Before Police Had Dispersed the Marchers and Made Fourteen Arrests

ONE OFFICER WAS BADLY BEATEN

Philadelphia, February 21.—The marching of nearly 1,000 foreigners upon city hall, where they said they intended to make demands upon Mayor Reyburn for work, precipitated a riot in Broad street, in the heart of the city late Thursday afternoon, in which twenty persons were injured before the police by heroic methods dispersed the marchers and arrested fourteen of them.

The men, most of whom were Italians and Poles, marched from the foreign settlement in the lower section of the city. They intended to call on the mayor as a preliminary to a meeting which they intended to hold tonight. The leaders and a score of others in the line carried red flags having a black border. When they reached Broad street, a few blocks below the city hall several wagons attempted to pass through the line, and the drivers were dragged from their seats by the marchers and badly beaten.

Policemen ran to the rescue of the drivers and a riot call was sent in. The motor bicycle police were sent flying through the centre of the city, and rounded up the entire mounted police squad, the big reserve street squad and all patrolmen, who were hurried to the scene in wagons and automobiles. Private carriages that were standing in front of stores were even pressed into services.

A number of persons who were watching the paraders got into the first disturbance, and when the big reserve force of police hurried down upon the marchers, a general riot was in progress.

Some of the marchers drew revolvers, and began firing at the police and the mounted officers riding into the centre of the fight used their batons right and left upon the heads of the leaders. In the melee three policemen were shot and slightly wounded.

The Academy Contest

One of the most interesting and closely contested contests ever held at the academy took place Friday for the prizes offered by the Bellefonte Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution for the best essays on subjects of the Revolutionary period.

Four young ladies and four young gentlemen competed as follows:

Miss Grace Cook, Bellefonte,—Alexander Hamilton.

John South, Bridgeport, O.—Robert Morris.

Ellen Hayes, Bellefonte,—Burgoyne's Expedition.

Lorney Hummel, Harrisburg, Pa.—Alexander Hamilton.

Janet Scott, Bellefonte,—Burgoyne's Expedition.

William Crooks, Williamsport,—Alexander Hamilton.

Emily Bassett, Sparrows Point, Md.—The Old Dominion.

Townsend Frasier, Bridgeport, O—Washington and his generals.

The singing of national songs between readings, and instrumental music by Miss Jacobs and Professor Hall made the program very pleasing.

The judges were Mrs. Jennie Hasting, Mrs. Lizzie Potter and Mrs. Catharine Dinges. They found the contest a very difficult one to decide and concluded to offer two first prizes of five dollars each to Messrs Crooks and Frasier respectively and the first ladies prize to Miss Ellen Hayes.

The large number of daughters present expressed themselves as very highly pleased with the contest. The flag salute and the salute of the faculty and students to the daughters were very appropriate, indeed, and very gracefully executed. The decorations of red, white and blue with an abundance of historical pictures presented an inspiring environment.

"I am getting frightfully cynical," Elberta said dolefully, arranging the cushions on the box couch so the becoming red one would be nearest her face, "and I don't like it. My dislike is not founded so much upon moral grounds as from a regard for my complexion."

"Eh?" remarked Mr. Terhune helplessly. "Your conversation, my dear Elberta, often seems involved. Your remarks are sometimes not as lucid—that is, as intelligible—as one might desire."

"Perhaps I am forgetting that the young or very feeble are fed on specially prepared food, John, and the rule probably applies as much to the mental as to the physical," she said, with mock petulance.

"Now, my dear girl, don't fly off into a psychological discussion, for either nature defrauded me or they left out something in my college course, I don't know which. The only thing I want to know is—why being cynical should affect your complexion."

"That's easily explained. It takes the sparkle out of my eyes, it draws my mouth down at the corners and destroys my dimple, and to cap the climax it makes me wonder if there's a living, breathing man worth marceling my hair for. So when I get in a cynical mood I go around straight haired, thin lipped, with a listless expression that makes me positively homely."

"But, my dear child," protested Mr. Terhune, "I could run in almost any time to admire the marceled hair, and if I didn't happen to come at the psychological moment you could phone me at any minute, and I would be delighted—dee-light-ed—to rush to admire—just count on me for any old time," he added graciously.

"John, you are at intervals positively foolish," she said severely, trying to select from the box in her lap a chocolate that contained a nut. "I am tired of being admired by plain, everyday men."

"Like me?" he suggested amiably.

"I didn't say I was rude or impolite enough to call you names. I merely said I was cynical," she demurred.

"Oh, call me a plain, everyday man if you like," he conceded graciously—"if it makes you feel one tiny bit better to work off your cynicism on me. Lady Fair. 'Tis sweet to die for—er—I'm not strong in poetry, Elberta, but I'm willing to help you out all I can. So you want the marcel to be admired by some wonderful being. Elberta, my child, don't you think a perfect man would let his thoughts run upon—er—scientific lines—and not undulations in—hair lines?"

"He wouldn't, I'm sure, labor under the impression that he could make puns," she sniffed disdainfully.

"Even if he didn't make puns he might be disagreeable in other respects," suggested Mr. Terhune hopefully. "His very perfections, my dear girl, would make him clear sighted enough to see the imperfections of others. Now, I think you are perfect, but he probably would not take to you at all on account of your imperfections."

"Indeed? Would you enumerate them?" The tone struck Mr. Terhune as being slightly icy, but, however foolish, he evidently was not lacking in bravery.

"If you will for once let me assume that I, even I, am a perfect man, perhaps I can give you a few of the ideas he might entertain."

"Pray do. It cannot fail to be interesting," freezingly.

"That reminds me. I met Miss Deland on the street this afternoon, and furtively over the suspected member.

"And she always makes herself so entirely charming—she doesn't seem to be moody—one could not imagine her ever being—er—rude. She is an ideal feminine character, a perfectly womanly woman—she would give her husband just the proper amount of adoration necessary to stimulate him to success—she wouldn't expect the perfect man to waste time in admiring a mere woman—a frail, impulsive, whimsical woman. The perfect man, my dear, would probably—at least possibly—be the center of attraction himself. I can imagine that his wife would occupy the subordinate position of second fiddle."

Elberta sat quietly stroking her nose with her finger, evidently deeply absorbed in thought.

"John—do you think my nose is—very large?" she asked timidly, almost humbly.

"Oh, I have seen a few larger," declared Mr. Terhune airily.

It is hard to have one's sensitive point so negligently handled, and the girl looked at him in grieved surprise. "I had no idea you were so disagreeably critical. Of course I never thought I was a beauty, but I can't help the size of my nose."

"Of course you can't," consolingly. "Nobody can blame you for it," he declared piously. "We should not blame people for their misfortunes. We should sympathize."

She looked at him a second, tears of mortification in her eyes. "You are—cruel," she said in muffled tones from the depth of the red pillow where she buried her face.

Mr. Terhune without her eyes upon him permitted a look of satisfaction to creep over his face.

"Wouldn't it be awful to live in the same house with a man so perfect himself that he never noticed your eyes or hair, who perhaps had so perfect a nose that he would make disagreeable comparisons of your own—er—features?" he suggested wickedly.

A slight sob from the red cushion and an unhappy tapping on the floor by the small slippered foot nearest him was the only response.

"Wouldn't you rather have a—well, just a plain everyday man who thought you altogether charming?" He dared to put his hand on the mass of fluffy hair that showed off well on the red cushion. He had never been so daring before, and the sobs stopped in amazement.

"He—he might like Miss Deland's type too. I haven't a profile like hers," came the muffled tones.

"Pshaw!" said Mr. Terhune, with a fine flow of scorn. "She is always so exactly the same that she would soon grow monotonous." And he deftly lifted the bowed head to his shoulder.

"But is my nose—so very large?" came a whisper from his shoulder.

"You dear," said the plain, everyday man enthusiastically, "there's not in the whole world a more charming feature."

Story of a Black Cap.

A court martial was being held on board the Hibernia at Malta for the trial of a gunner who had been drinking not wisely, but too well. The evidence had been taken, the finding decided on and the court cleared to consider the sentence. The court was reopened and the prisoner ushered in. Hardly had he crossed the threshold when, to the astonishment of the members of the court, he threw himself face downward, uttered a wild shriek and pleaded piteously for mercy. Every one looked at the president, and the reason for the prisoner's strange behavior at once dawned on their perplexed minds. The president's hair on top was conspicuous by its absence, and in private life he invariably wore a black skullcap. Now, the Hibernia was one of the draftiest ships in the navy, and the deliberations had been somewhat long, so in the prisoner's absence the president had covered his head with its usual protector, but on the man's re-entry quite forgot to hide it by putting on his cocked hat. The unfortunate gunner, whose nerves were somewhat unstrung as a result of his recent debauch, jumped at the conclusion that the wearing of the black cap by the president signified that he was to be hanged for his offense, instead of which his punishment turned out ot be a few days in the cells.—London P. Robbing the Mail.

General Post Office, Dec. 17, 1796.—The Post-boy, carrying the North Mail from Warrington to Chester, was stopped on Monday evening, the 5th inst., between 7 and 8 o'clock, within a mile of Chester, by a Man on foot, who took from him the Mail, containing the Manchester, Warrington, and Frodsham bags of letters. The Robber was dressed in a blue jacket and White Trousers, and had an oil case cover to his hat. Whoever shall apprehend and convict, or cause to be apprehended and convicted, the person who committed this robbery, will be entitled to a reward of Two Hundred Pounds over and above the reward given by Act of Parliament for apprehending of highwaymen; and if any accomplice in the robbery, or knowing thereof, shall surrender himself and make discovery, whereby the person who committed the same may be apprehended and brought to justice, such discoverer will be entitled to the said reward of Two Hundred Pounds, and will also receive his Majesty's most gracious pardon. By command of the Postmaster General.

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Paid For the Supplies.

A story said to be characteristic is told of a certain judge. It seems that when he convened court at one of the towns on his circuit it was found that no pens, ink or paper had been provided, and upon inquiry it developed that no county funds were available for this purpose. The judge expressed himself somewhat forcefully, then drew some money from his own pocket. He was about to hand this to the clerk when a visiting lawyer, a high priced imported article, brought on to defend a case of some importance, spoke up in an aside plainly audible over the room.

"Well," he remarked, with infinite contempt, "I've seen some pretty bad courts, but this—well, this is the limit!"

The old judge flushed darkly.

"You are fined $25 for contempt, sir! Hand the money to the clerk!" he said, and when the pompous visitor had humbly complied he continued.

"Now, Mr. Clerk, go out and get what pens, ink and paper the court may require, and if there is anything left over you can give the gentleman his change."—Harper's Weekly.

A Genius at Excuses.

"While I was stage managing a piece some time ago," said a theatrical magnate, "one of my show girls showed an independence of spirit which was superb. She was always late for rehearsal. Her excuses were great. All her friends and relations had a series of maladies which were remarkable in their number and diversity. She nursed them all until they naturally gave up the ghost. About an hour was enough to bury most of them. Then she caught on to mechanical devices. Street cars were invariably late—just as late as she was, in fact. Then in turn came certain inconveniences in hotels. The elevator was continually sticking until finally came the denouement. It was in Philadelphia. The siren did not appear until nearly two hours after the proper time. I looked at her and waited. The excuse came glibly.

Just Found a Soul.

"Talking of Jekyll and Hyde effects," said a chronic bachelor at the club, "I got the surprise of my life the other night. Met a woman, the wife of a friend who married her a year or so ago. Knew her before marriage and always thought she was too homely ever to find a husband—one of the sort that polite writers call 'uncompromisingly plain.'

"Well, sir, when I entered her home last night she had the same old face—made me feel sorry for her husband, really. Then she got to talking about some charitable work she is engaged in for crippled children—and, presto, she suddenly became beautiful! Never saw such a transformation in all my life, really—not the same woman somehow.

"The deuce of it is I couldn't dissect the change, but I guess the eyes had more to do with it than any other feature. I had an idea of advising her husband to confine her conversation to that particular charity, but I'm afraid he'd regard it as a bit personal."—New York Globe.

How One Reads.

The average person believes that in reading a newspaper paragraph he reads the whole of each type's impression, while, in fact, he only notices the upper half of each letter. Cover the upper half of a line with a sheet of paper, being careful to hold the paper exactly in the middle of the letter, and you will not, without difficulty, decipher a word. Then place the paper over the lower half of the line. It can be read without the slightest trouble.

Weather Tips Costly.

Do you know that Uncle Sam spends a million and a half dollars to obtain advance information concerning the weather for his people? He does—and its more money than all the powers of Europe combined expend annually for this purpose—so it stands to reason that he ought to have the best weather bureau in the world. Sometimes we get a little bit upset when the weather predictions don't hit the mark, but after all we have to admit that the aggregate results, taken year after year, are really wonderful.

Did you ever stop to think how much money the weather man says for the people of the country? Well, some years ago a large insurance company, which thought the weather bureau was overrated, started out to gather statistics on this subject. They came to the conclusion that through the warnings of the weather man no less than $30,000,000 was saved to the people of the United States each year. Pretty good return for an outlay of a million and a half a year, isn't it.

Probably the most important work the weather bureau is now conducting is the study of the sun, which is being made at Mount Weather, which is a peak in the Blue Ridge, about sixty-five miles from Washington. The weather bureau officials came to the conclusion that the proper development of their service depends upon determining the relation of the great orb to the meteorological condition of the earth. It holds, they believe, the key to the mysteries of the cyclone, drought, torrential flood, etc., and they are now seeking that key.

Will Have New Department.

The New York Central has established an inspection department, the chief duty of which is to investigate accidents on its road and determine the cause. The plan it has been following is entirely original and without doubt will soon receive the approval of all other roads as well as the general public. An expert investigator is stationed at the principal offices of the railroad, whose duties are such that he can leave at a moment's notice and proceed to the scene of an accident that is serious or involves a lesson. There he is joined by the division engineer and superintendent, and after careful investigation an exact and impartial report is made. The cause of the accident is determined as quickly as possible and full and accurate information is immediately given to the the press. This certainly marks a new departure in railroad management, which will be highly appreciated by news reporters, who have generally experienced great difficulties in obtaining the particulars in railroad casulties, entailing great loss of life and property.

BARNESBORO FIRE SWEPT

One Person Burned to Death and two Others Injured

EFFORTS WERE IN VAIN

Four Business Houses Were Destroyed and the Losses Will Exceed $100,000.

SAID TO BE WORK OF INCENDIARIES.

Barnesboro, that has in recent months been the scene of some very disastrous conflagrations was visited again Tuesday morning by a fire that destroyed much valuable property and caused the death of a well known lady and the injury of others.

The fire which is thought to have been the work of incendiaries and by some charged to "Black Hand," started about 2 o'clock in Adamoski's tailor shop, which was destroyed, the flames sweeping on along Philadelphia avenue and devouring the Globe Hotel, Harry McMullen's residence, Max Friedman's big clothing and dry goods establishment, a comparatively new brick building; John R. Musser's hardware store and three barns, together with nearly all the contents in each of the buildings.

The second floor of the building in which the fire started was occupied as a residence by the family of Edward Lutzenburg. The fired gained such rapid headway that before the Lutzenbergs could escape from the building it was seething furnace and Mrs. Mary Lutzenberg, who was a woman upwards of 70 years old, was burned to death. Her son, Joseph, was badly burned in his efforts to save his parent from the fiery hell, and was sent to the Memorial hospital at Johnstown for treatment.

Assistance was summoned from North Barnesboro and Spangler, but they were powerless because of the lack of pressure and finally the supply of water gave out entirely, and the fire had its own way until it had spent its fury.

The Friedmans are the heaviest losers. They owned both the buildings occupied by themselves and by the tailor, hardware man and the Lutzenbergs and their loss will reach $75,000 upon which it is said they have not over $10,000 insurance. The Globe hotel was worth about $25,000 and the proprietor, Zach Weakland, carried no insurance at all. Some time ago he had some difficulty in adjusting the rate of the insurance and the policies were not in effect. Mr. McMillan's loss on his residence and undertaking establishment is about $5,000, and it could not be ascertained whether or not he has any insurance. Mr. Musser's loss will be about $5,000 and the tailor's about $1,000, partially covered by insurance.

The four buildings were totally destroyed with all their contents. For a while it seemed as if the whole town was doomed to destruction, as the firemen were absolutely helpless to stem the fury of the flames. Harry May a fireman was injured by falling bricks

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

TOBACCO CROPS.

Seed Selection and Improved Handling of Plants.

By W. H. SCHERFFIUS, tobacco expert, Kentucky experiment station.

The importance of good seed in every crop has been demonstrated so often that every farmer should know that it pays him well to plant only the best. Tobacco is no exception to this rule. Light, chaffy seeds that are low in vitality give us plants that are weaklings with slow growth. Various schemes for separating the light from the heavy tobacco seed have been suggested, but the most thoroughly practical method is by means of a piece of apparatus introduced by the bureau of plant industry and a current of air which is generated with the foot bellows, as shown in the cut. The air passes through the rubber tube, then through the valve, which can be regulated to admit of the passage of the desired amount of air to accomplish the best separation. The air passes up through a piece of half inch iron tube, thence through a larger glass tube and out at the top, carrying with it the light, chaffy seed. At the base of the glass tube, which is about an inch in diameter and five or six feet long, is a metallic joint which has a piece of fine wire gauze in it to prevent the seed from falling into the valve below. Using about an ounce of seed for each charge, only a few minutes are required to separate a considerable quantity.

This piece of apparatus can be made by most any mechanic, or it can be purchased from any chemical supply house. Every community should own one of these machines for the benefit of its farmers.

Improved methods of handling the crop is a topic of such magnitude that we deem it expedient at this writing not to go into detailed discussion of this phase of the subject.

Although the white burley and dark tobaccos are different types, the same general methods employed in the state for handling the crops are similar. It is desirable and usually the custom to select a piece of virgin soil for a seed bed. During the winter or early spring it is heated to a depth of two or three inches by burning brushwood or similar material on it to kill any weed seeds that would germinate and hinder the growth of the young tobacco plants. After the plot of ground is cool it is then dug up, slightly raised into beds, raked and put in good condition for the seed.

TOBACCO SEED SEPARATOR.

Although the cultural methods and mechanical manipulations of seeding, canvassing the beds, transplanting, cultivation and housing are adjusted to suit each locality, they are all carried out on the same general plan. There is often from two or two and one-half times as much burley tobacco set on the ground as is put on the same area in the dark tobacco district.

Bitter Rot of Apples.

It is well known that the bitter rot of apples is due to a specific fungus. This fungus grows on developing apples, beginning at any time during the summer or autumn when the conditions are favorable after the fruits are formed and until and after they are ripe, and it lives as a parasite in the bark of apple tree limbs, usually in localized areas called cankers. It does not occur upon the leaves.

The fungus lives over winter in woundlike spots called cankers on the limbs of the apple trees, and from these infection may start the succeeding season. Not infrequently the location of a canker can be made out by the spots beneath it on the growing fruit caused by spores washing with rainwater from the former on to the surfaces of the apples. The area of such infection in a well fruited tree frequently takes the form of a cone with its apex upward at or beneath the limb canker. The water carrying the spores does not descend perpendicularly because of the interference of the foliage; hence the wider area of infection below.—Illinois Experiment Station.

Corn and Emmer.

In some experiments with two-year-old grade steers it was found that a pound of corn was equal to one and a quarter pounds of emmer. Where the corn and emmer were mixed half and half by weight the relation was about the same, with a small increase in gain in favor of the mixture. With hogs it required seven to eight pounds of emmer as against about five pounds of corn to produce a pound of gain.

A Satisfactory Herd.

Choice cows can seldom be bought at reasonable figures, unless it be at a dispersion sale. The owners know their worth and will not part with them. This being the case, the only way we can get a satisfactory herd is to raise it. This is not only more satisfactory, but it is much more economical.

Will Organize Brotherhood.

The supper for the men of the Presbyterian church given in the chapel on Thursday evening proved to be a very interesting event and will probably result in the organization of a Brotherhood. The supper was served at 6.30 o'clock and covers were laid for 100. All but a few of the places at the table were filled, an indication of the interestedness on the part of the church. The tables were attractively arranged in a U shape and were artistically decorated with candles, James Summers acted as caterer for the occasion. The affair was a very informal one and when supper was over it took the form of a round table.

In the absence of Rev. L. F. Laverty of Pittsburg, who had been engaged to address the meeting, the committee in charge secured G. W. Gunther, of Tyrone to make the address. He was listened to very attentively and all were pleased with his remarks. He stated that their motto should be "The man of Gallilee for the men of Bellefonte." After Mr. Gunther had spoken they took up the subject of the organizatson of a Presbyterian Brotherhood. While the organization was not completed at Thursday night's meeting it is probable that it will be effected in the near future. In order to make the work more systematic a committee of five were appointed on organization, and committees on officers and membership were named. The committee on organization were instructed as to this work and will report at a later meeting. Before adjourning a vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Gunther, and also to W. P. Humes, M. L. Altenderfer and J. C. Meyer, Esq., the committee who had charge of the meeting.

More Inspectors Wante.

The most interesting subject at the session of the Pennsylvania Live Stock association on Thursday was the Pennsylvania meat inspection law, in which the results of the law were explained by Dr. Leonard Pearson, state veterinarian. "The state meat inspection law passed by the legislature provides only ten inspectors," said Dr. Pearson. "Much good has been accomplished, but it is impossible for ten men to cover Pennsylvania and make frequent visits or properly inspect the hundred of local slaughter houses. Some of these plants are maintained in a most disreputable way. Federal, state and city inspection has resulted in wonderful improvement, but more state and city inspectors will be necessary to insure inspection that will safeguard the public at all times against the diseases transmitted by impure meats." Dr. Pearson pointed to the usually healthy constitution of the Jews as evidence of what can be accomplished by properly safeguarding the meat supply. After reviewing the efforts of the Jews to secure pure food since the time of Moses, he said that statistics show that in the crowed Ghetto of New York, and other districts of dense population the Jews are afflicted less than any other class of people. He said that tuberculosis among the Jews is only one-third or one-fourth what it is among their neighbors.

SCHOOL HYGIENE.

Why You Should Teach Your Children Jiu Jitsu.

One of the most interesting subjects brought up for discussion at the recent international congress on school hygiene was the question of including the teaching of jiu jitsu, or Japanese wrestling, as part of the regular school curriculum.

One thing about jiu jitsu is that it is graceful. The throws and falls are all done when expert with an ease and grace that are little short of marvelous. What is of more importance is the wonderfully beneficial effect it has upon the health of those little pupils who have already become proficient and who number small mites of five or six years.

One of the most potent results is the improved circulation of a child who has been through a course of training, the exercise invigorating all the organs and starting the circulation through brain and body. It permits of no danger of strain and can consequently be indulged in by the small devotee without any anxiety on the part of the school authorities.

In the case of an exceedingly delicate child the result has proved satisfactory beyond the most sanguine hopes, and the difference in the physique of the little pupil, who numbers eight or nine summers, seems hardly credible after a course of only three months' training.

A lesson in jiu jitsu lasts from twenty to thirty minutes, the movements representing the art of self defense or attack. Naturally enough, in the case of the small people it is necessary to teach the attitudes one by one till they become instinctive, the actual reasoning power which would direct when they should be turned to account requiring riper years.

The ankle trip, which consists in swinging the opponent's leg aside just at the psychological moment, when his weight is being shifted from the left foot to the right, and pulling him aside at the same time, is taught first, the children being wonderfully quick at picking up the theory and being given an opportunity of testing every movement on the teacher.

BUSINESS TRAINING.

Man Should Listen to Wife's Counsel In Business Affairs.

Governor Glenn of North Carolina writes:

"I advise every man who would be successful to listen to his wife's counsel in business affairs. The woman who is really a man's helpmeet is the one who is able to advise him on every serious problem that confronts him. But no woman can be a real companion who must spend all her time as cook and housekeeper. She ought to know about business and what is going on in the world. It is unreasonable of any man to expect his wife to meet his needs as a real companion if he does not provide the means for her to become so. A wife should have some leisure to study and develop herself along intellectual lines. A man who holds the opposite idea lowers the standard for wifehood and womanhood. And every girl and woman in the country should have a strict and thorough business education. No matter how fortunate a girl's immediate circumstances, she should be given a complete business training. Let them be trained to be first class stenographers, bank cashiers, professional nurses, bookkeepers—anything they have talent for. But let their equipment be complete, as a man's is. It is a dreadful mistake to leave a girl without any definite training whereby she may earn a livelihood in case of necessity. I believe the reason many women go into wrong paths in life is simply because they are helpless when thrown suddenly on their own resources."—Woman's Journal.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

A pinch of salt taken before meals stimulates digestion.

A cup of strong coffee will remove the odor of onions from the breath.

Nervous spasms are usually relieved by dissolving a little salt in the mouth.

Bathing in salt water tones up the skin and gives it a fresh, wholesome color.

For corns take equal parts of lard and quinine and mix thoroughly. Apply at night.

For a sprained ankle the whites of eggs and powdered alum made into plaster is almost a specific.

Hot water is better than cold for bruises. It relieves pain quickly and will prevent discoloration.

One should be cautious about entering a sickroom in a state of perspiration, as the moment you become cool your pores absorb.

Stewed rhubarb has a well known medicinal value besides being a complexion beautifier. It is said to be valuable for rheumatic troubles.

What We Want to Know.

"A heavy application of manure alone gave slightly larger yields of mixed hay at the first and second cuttings than a combination of a smaller amount of manure and potash. During the sixteen years this experiment has been in progress the average yields of ten crops of corn and six of hay have been greater on the larger amount of manure alone, but not sufficiently greater to cover the extra outlay at a cost of $5 per cord for the manure." This nugget of experience from the Massachusetts station represents the kind of work that means much to farmers.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

How the Cook Did It.

He had a number of guests to dinner, and he was doing the carving. He had deftly taken two slices off the joint, and he was turning off a third when the blade struck a skewer, made a sliding motion and came out at the top, with the result that the proposed slice looked like a dead leaf curled up by the sun's rays.

He could not say intense things in the presence of his guests, so he froze his wife with a glance, dug the skewer out viciously, made a grim joke concerning the indigestibility of roasted wood and ordered little Willie, who had made several attempts to speak, to keep silent or leave the table.

His evident temper led to an embarrassing silence, and Willie saw an opening that he could not resist.

"Cook burned her nose orful!" he announced.

"Too bad," said the mother, glad of any excuse for conversation. "How did she do it?"

"Why," answered Willie very apropos, "trying to pull them skewers out with her teeth!"—London Scraps.

An Indignant Artist.

The sensational offers said to have been made by theatrical managers to the principal actor in a recent murder trial must have made professional stars feel very much as did the painter Haydon in 1846 when two of his finest pictures were being shown at the Egyptian hall, and the public thronged into another room where General Tom Thumb was on view. "They rush by thousands to see Tom Thumb," wrote the disappointed painter in his diary. "Their eyes are open, but their sense is shut. It is an insanity, a rabies, a madness, a furor, a dream!" Another entry later on runs: "Tom Thumb had 12,000 people last week, R. R. Haydon 133½ (the half a little girl). Exquisite taste of the English people!" We do not seem to have progressed much since then.—London Chronicle.

Diameter of a Fine Wire.

Should you ever find it necessary to obtain the diameter of a fine wire, it may be done in this manner: Wind it carefully around a piece of pencil in one layer for an inch or so, that each turn is touching the previous one. Then measure exactly an inch along the wire and count the number of turns in the inch. You then have the information. Thus, if there are eighteen turns the wire is one-eighteenth of an inch in diameter.

A Good Man.

"Your dead husband wor a good man," declared the sympathetic Mrs. Casey to the bereaved widow.

"He wor!" exclaimed Mrs. Murphy, dashing the tears from her eyes. "No two policemin cud handle him!"—Judge.

Eggs are considered one of the best remedies for dysentery. Beaten up slightly and swallowed they tend to lessen the inflammation of stomach and intestines.

In even severe attacks of colic a teaspoonful of salt dissolved in a teacupful of cold water has been known to give immediate relief. The same dose will revive a person who has been stunned by a heavy fall if he can be forced to swallow it.

A teaspoonful of ground mustard in a cupful of warm water is a prompt and reliable emetic and should be taken in cases of poisoning or cramps from overeating. Powdered resin is the best thing to stop bleeding from cuts.

A Memory Test.

A professor of mnemonics had gone to lecture at or near Canterbury. After the lecture was finished he had to wait for his London train. It was a most comfortless day, and he retired to an inn for shelter and refreshment. To pass the time he began to exhibit his feats of memory to the yokels in the inn parlor, and one and all were thunderstruck except the waiter. There is always one skeptic in every communion, whether of saints or sinners. Do what he would he could not mitigate the acrid smile of acid incredulity of that glorified potman! In the midst of one of his most difficult feats the whistle sounded of the "Only train to London tonight!" and he rushed off to catch it. He caught it at the station, and his reputation caught it in the inn parlor, for the waiter, coming in with some ordered refreshments and finding him gone, pointed to the corner where he had been sitting and exclaimed, "Silly 'umbug, he's forgot his umbrella!"—Young Man.

A Night Alarm

Worse than an alarm of fire at night is the metallic cough of croup bringing dread to the household. Careful mothers keep Foley's Honey and Tar in the house and give it at the first sign of danger. Foley's Honey and Tar has saved many little lives and it is the only safe preparation for children as it contains no harmful drugs. Sold by C. M. Parrish.

"Health Coffee" is really the closest Coffee Imitation ever yet produced. This, the finest Coffee Substitute ever made, has recently been produced by Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis. Not a grain of real Coffee in it either. Health Coffee is made from pure toasted cereals, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—who might drink it for Coffee: No twenty or thirty minutes boiling. "Made in a minute" says the doctor. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

STRONG Again

is what Mrs. Lucy Stovall, of Tilton, Ga., said after taking Kodol for Dyspepsia. Hundreds of other weak women are being restored to perfect health by this remedy. YOU may be well if you will take it.

Indigestion causes nearly all the sickness that women have. It deprives the system of nourishment and the delicate organs peculiar to women suffer—weaken, and become diseased.

Kodol

enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that may be eaten. It nourishes the body, and rebuilds the weak organs, restoring health and strength. Kodol relieves indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia, sour risings, belching, heartburn and all stomach disorders.

Digests What You Eat

Relieves Indigestion, sour stomach, belching and all forms of stomach disorders.

PEOPLE WHO REALLY KNOW WHAT PE-RU-NA IS.

MRS. ALICE J. BORDNER.

Mrs. Emma F. Mumford, No. 1 Olsen's Court, Salt Lake City, Utah, writes:

"Four months ago I became chilled through and through by getting my feet wet.

"The next morning I was stiff and sore with a severe cold which had settled all over my body. The blood seemed to rush to my head, causing dizziness and blinding headaches.

"As soon as Peruna was recommended to me I decided to give it a trial and am pleased to say that it cured me after I had used it only two months.

"I think you have a splendid medicine and gladly endorse it."

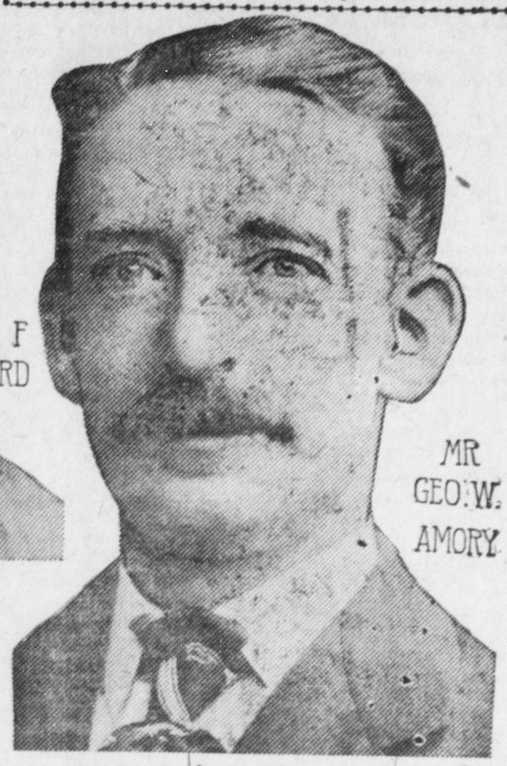
People preferring solid medicines should call for Peruna tablets. Each tablet is equivalent to one average dose of Peruna.

MRS EMMA F MUMFORD

Mr. George W. Amory, 337 West 19th St., New York City, New York, writes:

"Somehow I have always had a prejudice against advertised medicine, but I want to make one decided exception in favor of Peruna.

"I caught a cold last winter and it settled in throat and head, developing a most persistent catarrh, which seemed to defy all medicines until I tried Peruna. Before I had used two bottles I considered myself cured."



MR GEO. W. AMORY

MR. WICKLIFFE R. SMITH

MRS. I. D. HAYES.

PERUNA A REAL MEDICINE

Those Who Slander Peruna Know Nothing About It.

THE PEOPLE WHO USE IT ARE THE ONLY RELIABLE WITNESSES.

Read The Enthusiastic Testimonials on This Page.

These Testimonials Were Given Out of Pure Gratitude For The Benefit Received From Pe-ru-na.

Catarrh of Bronchial Tubes.

Mr. Wickliffe R. Smith, editor of The Potlatch Herald, formerly principal of the schools at Cameron, Idaho, writes:

"For some time I suffered with catarrh of the throat and bronchial tubes.

"I tried many remedies, but could find nothing that would give me relief. Finally I tried Peruna. Three bottles cured me, sound and well. I believe it will do as much for others as it did for me."

Gained Thirty Pounds.

Mrs. Alice J. Bordner, 1311 Maple Ave., Harrisburg, Pa., writes:

"I have found a cure in Peruna. I cannot recommend Peruna enough, and I also thank you for your kind attention to me. I am as well as could be ever since I began taking Peruna, and will recommend it to others. I only weighed 95 pounds before taking Peruna; now I weigh 125."

Throat and Head.

Mrs. I. D. Hayes, 1937 Druid Hill, Baltimore, Md., writes:

"Peruna is one of the best remedies for grippe, cold in the head, sore throat, nervous headaches, and coughs that has ever been discovered. After the use of one bottle in my family I don't feel safe without Peruna in my house."

In a later letter Mrs. Hayes says: "I am never without a bottle of Peruna in the house. I find it good for most every complaint. I give the children Peruna if they have a cold and it always relieves them. I don't think I could find a better remedy to give my children."

It is so easy to criticize things about which the critic knows nothing.

Take, for instance, Peruna. There are plenty of people who are willing to say Peruna is this and that, who never have tasted Peruna, and have never known anything about its effects upon the human system.

There are people who say, and probably believe, that Peruna is used as a beverage by some people. It would be the easiest thing in the world to show the falsity of such a belief.

Let any one who reads this go to the drug store and purchase a bottle of Peruna. If, after attempting to use it as a beverage or to take it in doses sufficient to produce anything like intoxication, if after putting it to this test such a person is still of the opinion that Peruna is a disguised alcoholic drink, he will be warranted in making such a statement. Practically, Peruna cannot be so used. Any one who knows anything about Peruna by personal use knows that Peruna is a medicine. The very label on the bottle, giving the principal active ingredients, furnishes indisputable proof that Peruna is a medical compound. We will be willing to guarantee that no normal person can or will use Peruna as a beverage. If any one thinks this remedy can be so used one trial will be sufficient to disabuse his mind.

Peruna is a great and useful family medicine. It is used in multitudes of homes. It has become a standard remedy for various petty ailments in the home. It is especially useful for climatic diseases. It is an excellent remedy for colds. It is a well-tried remedy for catarrh in all forms.

We have a multitude of testimonials recommending it for colds, for bronchitis, for various affections of the respiratory and alimentary organs.

This is well known to all who know Peruna by actual experience.

"Cures All Catarrhal Diseases."

Mr. I. W. Kightlinger, Cambridge, Neb., writes: "I don't have any more trouble in my throat, and have not had a headache for four weeks.

"Peruna is the very medicine for catarrh. There is no medicine like it in the United States, for I have tried a good many before using Peruna.

"I will keep it in my house to guard against catarrh, as it cures all catarrhal diseases."

EDITORIAL.

President Roosevelt's activity seems to increase as his term shortens.

AMERICAN industries are reviving. The law of supply and demand is the stimulant.

THE men who were not elected are not to blame for the faults of those who would have elected them.

"THE Democratic comvention of Wisconsin has instructed its delegates to vote for Bryan"—News item. Well, who else would they instruct for?

Now that "In God We Trust" is to be restored to the coins a wag suggests that "I know that my Redeemer Liveth" be printed on clearing house certificates.

1908 should be a stand-pat year. A young woman has issued wedding invitations in New York with this note: "It is the bride's wish that no gifts be sent." Funerals with flowers omitted and weddings with no gifts indicate a progressive state of society and a return to the simple life, perhaps.

The April Primaries.

From now on interest will increase in the spring primary campaign which will end with the election in the early part of April. Most of those who aspire to the various offices to be filled are already in the field and are only awaiting the rising of tomorrow's sun to get down to work in dead earnest.

This is a matter that concerns the whole state. Primaries will be held in every election district in the commonwealth on the same day Candidates for all the offices, district and county, to be filled at the next November election, will be nominated at those primaries. The only exceptions are the candidates to be named by the state convention and this year these will be the candidates for presidential electors, thirty-four in number, and one candidate for judge of superior court. In addition delegates to the state and national conventions of all parties will be chosen at the primaries by direct vote.

There is much information that it is useful for intending candidates to have at this time in order to avoid future confusion and embarrassment. All petitions of candidates seeking nomination to district judgeships, to congress, the state senate or representatives in the legislature must be filed in the office of the secretary of the commonwealth not later than Saturday, March 14. All petitions for candidates for county offices and for delegates to state and national conventions must be filed in the office of the county commissioners not later than Saturday, March 21. This requirement is uniform throughout the state; there is no exception to it anywhere.

IT is a foregone conclusion that the convention will sound no retreat on the subject of Protection, and that it will countenance no course which will unduly disturb business. Before we recover fully from existing depression the country will have had a surfeit of industrial and commercial uncertainty, and public sentiment will not approve any attemp at Tariff revision that will develop another period of disturbance in the manufacturing world. By election day there will be ademand all over the United States for business peace and stability, and this undoubtedly will act as a check upon Congress when it takes up the Tariff.—Gazette-Times."

We heard a man say the other morning that the abbreviation for February—Feb.—means Freeze every body, and that man looked frozen in his ulster. I was apparent that he needed the kind of warmth that stays, the warmth that reaches from head to foot, all over the body. We could have told him from personal knowledge that Hood's Sarsaparilla gives permanent warmth, it invigorates the blood and speeds it along through artery and vein, and really fits men and women, boys and girls, to enjoy cold weather and resist the attacks of disease. It gives the right kind of warmth, stimulates and strengthens at the same time, and all its benefits are lasting. There may be a suggestion in this for you.

Howard.

The election returns for this borough last Tuesday were the most surprising of any election ever held. As is customary the Democrats voted their tickets straight and many of the Democratic candidates received a large vote from the Republican side giving the former some of the offices. Some of the old line Republicans of the first order were defeated and persons who had recently moved into the borough given offices instead If the Republicans would stick to their ticket like the Democrats there is only one office that a Democrat could ever get in Howard and that is the minority inspector. New comers to Howard can count on being elected to a borough office about as soon as they are located. Although he did not seek the nomination and requested his friends not to vote for him A. A. Pletcher was elected to the office of Justice of the Peace. Come to think of it Al. is just about the right carriage and of proper corpulence for a 'Squire and 'Squire A. A. Pletcher sounds somewhat dignified.

John Confer of Snow Shoe was visible on our streets on Friday last.

27 young folks held a social at the residence of Rev. M. C. Piper's on Friday evening.

A very agreeable surprise was given to James Lingle and wife at their home near Milesburg Monday evening 17th, on the 50th anniversary of their marriage by their children and grandchildren, also friends of Beech Creek, Howard, and Mt. Eagle. Some 40 persons in all were present, refreshments of the season were in abundance, several gold peices were among the gifts. The old people telling of the times and happenings of 50 and 75 years past, of the difference at that date, was amusing to the younger set. Mr. Lingle is past his four score years and took an active part in the social gathering to make it pleasant for his friends. Mrs. Lingle was a daughter of the late Fredrick Malone, one of the first settlers of Bald Eagle Valley. She is the only survivor of the once large Malone family. She is hale and hearty. Their family consists of six sons and three daughters all of whom are married. All present were delighted with the pleasant gathering. They began separating for their respective homes at 10 p. m., in their single and two seated sleighs.

Snow Shoe.

The masqurade social held up at the park pavillion was well attended on Wednesday evening which was a very favorable one and everytody enjoyed themselves the best they knew how. There was some very fierce looking costumes and some queer looking faces. After the grand march lunch was served. Everybody ate hearty after which there was a few more dances and then returned home.

A very valuable cow belonging to Mrs. Larrah of Patchtown was killed on Monday on the railroad opposite John Tobins.

W. C. Snyder Supt. of Lehigh mines had some repairing done to his house.

Miss Mae Lomison, one of the Clarence supply Co. clerks is away spending a few days vacation with her parents at Montgomery.

Miss Tessie Lucas of Runville was a pleasant caller in our town the past few days.

Mr. Leathers has been making quite a few trips to Clarence the last few days, it looks as though he is going to give railroading up and go into the store business.

Thomas Dickson and Gilbert where up to Mconey's on Sunday to hear the phonograph.

George Groce of Karthaus was a pleasant caller in our town Tuesday. George is looking old fashioned.

Call for Republican Convention.

TO THE REPUBLICAN ELECTORS OF PENNSYLVANIA:

I am directed by the Republican State Committee to announce that the Republicans of Pennsylvania, by their duly chosen representatives will meet in convention at the Majestic Theatre in the City of Harrisburg on Wednesday, April 29, 1908, at ten thirty o'clock a. m. for the purpose of nominating candidates for the following offices, to wit:

One person for the office of Judge of the Superior Court;

Thirty-four persons, two at large, for presidential electors, and

To elect four delegates and four alternates at large to the Republican National Convention to be held in Chicago on June 16, 1908, also

For the transaction of such other business as may be presented.

In accordance with the rules governing the Republican party in Pennsylvania, the representation in the State Convention will be based on the vote polled at the last presidential election; under the rules each legislative district is entitled to one delegate for every two thousand votes cast for the Presidential electors in 1904, and an additional delegate for every fraction of two thousand votes polled in excess of one thousand.

By order of the Republican State Committee.

JOHN R. WILLIAMS, Secretary. W. R. ANDREWS, Chairman.

To the Republican electors of the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd, 23rd, 24th, 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 31st, and 32nd Congressional Districts of Pennsylvania.

The call of the Republican National Committee for the National Convention to be held in the City of Chicago, and State of Illinois, on Tuesday, June 16, 1908, contains the following directions relative to the election of delegates and alternates, to wit:

"The delegatee-at-large and their alternates shall be elected by popular State and Territorial conventions, of which at least thirty days' notice shall have been published in some newspaper or newspapers of general circulation in the respective State or Territory.

The Congressional district delegates shall be elected by conventions called by the Republican Congressional Committee of each district, of which at least thirty days' notice shall have been published in some newspaper or newspapers of general circulation in the district; provided, that in any Congressional district where there is no Republican Congressional Committee, the Republican State Committee shall be substituted for and represent the Congressional Committee in issuing said call and making said publication; and provided, that delegates both from the State-at-large and their alternates and delegates from each Congressional district and their alternates, may be elected in conformity with the laws of the State in which the election occurs, provided, the State Committee, or any such Congressional Committee so direct, but provided, further, that in no State shall an election be so held as to prevent the delegates from any Congressional district and their alternates being selected by the Republican electors of that district."

In the absence of Congressional District Committees, and in compliance with the terms of the call of the Republican National Committee permitting the substitution of the State Committee in lieu thereof, the Republican State Committee directs through its Chairman that delegates and alternates to the Republican National Convention be elected as provided for by the Primary Election Laws of the State of Pennsylvania.

In accordance with the call of the National Committee 68 delegates and 68 alternates are to be chosen in Pennsylvania, to wit:

Four delegates and four alternates at large to be elected at the State Convention to be held at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, April 29th 1908, and two delegates and two alternates from each of the 32 Congressional districts.

Petitions of candidates in Congressional districts for delegate and alternate, signed by ten electors as provided by law, must be filed with the Board of County Commissioners not later than Saturday, March 21, 1908, and where a Congressional district is composed of more than one county the candidate must file his petition with the Board of County Commissioners in each county of the district signed by ten electors residing in the county where the petition is filed.

The Uniform Primaries Act being defective in ways and means regulating the certification of election of National delegates and alternates the following agreement has been reached after consultation with the chairmen of the several leading political parties of the State, the Attorney-General and the Secretary of the Commonwealth to wit:—

"It Is Agreed—That the provision in the Primaries Act relative to the certification of returns of votes cast for the candidates for nomination for members of Congress be followed in tabulating and certifying the vote cast for candidates for Congressional district delegates and alternates to the National Conventions of the several parties; therefore, the County Commissioners will be supplied with blank certificates upon which to make their return of votes cast for National delegates and alternates. They will forward these returns to the Secretary of the Commonwealth when they forward the returns for Congress. The Secretary of the Commonwealth will then compute the number of votes cast in the several counties composing the Congressional district and will certify the consolidated result to the Chairmen of the respective State Committees, and the State Chairmen will certify to their respective National Committees.

The method agreed upon and to which reference is made in the preceding paragraph is in strict accordance with the provisions contained in the call for the National Convention for the election of Delegates-at-Large, District Delegates and Alternates, and each Republican County Chairman in the State and all interested will be so instructed by the State Committee at the proper time.

ALTERNATE DELEGATES TO NATIONAL CONVENTIONS.

Alternate Delegates to National Conventions should be placed in nomination, elected and certified in the same manner as Delegates to National Convention."

By order of the Republican State Committee.

JOHN R. WILLIAMS, Secretary. W. R. ANDREWS, Chairman.

A puny child is always an anxiety to the parents. There seems generally no no reason why the little one should be weak when it is so well fed. But the fact is that it does not matter how much food the child takes if the stomach cannot extract the nourishment from it, No benefit can be derived from just eating. That is the condition of many a sickly child. The stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition are not doing their work, and the body is really starving. It is little use to give fish foods, like cod liver oil or emulsions, in such a case, because these also have to be digested; they may lighten the stomach's labor but they don't strengthen it. Strength is what the stomach needs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach, nourishes the nerves and, increases the action of the blood making glands. It is superior to every other preparation for children's use, on account of its body building qualities, and also because it is pleasant to the taste and contains no alcohol, whisky or other intoxicant. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a valuable aid when the bowels are irregular. They are small. Children take them readily.

No danger of consumption if you use Foley's Honey and Tar to cure that stubborn cough.

ANNUAL STATEMENT.

Following the custom of Centre County papers the Bellefonte Republican have had their mailing list reset and the date to which your subscription is paid will be found opposite your name on the label. We believe this will be a great convenience to our subscribers enabling them to see at a glance just when they are paid to. Quite a number of our readers are in arrears and we know this would not be the case had they received statements of their accounts.

The expenses of running a newspaper have increased greatly during the last year. White paper alone costs 50 per cent more than it did one year ago. Other expenses have increased accordingly. At this time of year all business houses make an effort to collect bills so as to meet their obligations promptly and start the new year square. We hope during the month of January to send a statement to every subscriber in arrears, but you don't need to wait for this. Send in your money and make your label read '08 or '09.

Remember the subscription price is $1.50 per year but if paid in advance it is $1.00

THE PUBLISHER

RILEY'S FIRST HIT.

Wrote a Poem "by Poe" and Palmed It on the Public.

James Whitcomb Riley began his career in a newspaper office in Anderson, Ind., by writing humorous rhymes as "advertising locals"—"doggerel" he called them. At the same time he wrote many rhymes with the serious intention of having them, if possible, recognized as poems. But he could not get them published. Even compositions whose worth he had tested—those that "would please people when I'd stand up and read 'em to them"—would be returned promptly by every magazine to which he offered them for publication. The Hoosier dialect was too "low down" for the average magazine editor.

Finally in a freak of boyish indignation, to prove that what editors really wanted was not originality, but imitation, he devised the scheme of writing a poem in imitation of Poe and of palming it off on the public as a real poem of Poe's recently discovered. The scheme was very skillfully planned and very deftly executed and successful beyond anything the clever deviser of it had ever dreamed. From one end of the country to the other "Leonainie" was hailed as a veritable "find," a bit of genius' most genuine ore. Riley had his revenge. He had some trouble, however, in proving that he was not an intentional forger.

He lost his newspaper position, but he immediately got another and better one on the Indianapolis Journal. "Come and get pay for your work," said Judge Martindale, the editor. The turn in the tide had come.

Loading Freight by Cards.

"I don't know whether the practice is still kept up in the far south, but I remember how tickled I was at seeing the method used in loading goods into freight cars down in Mississippi some while ago," said a railroad man of St. Louis.

"A lot of strapping black fellows will be on the job under the supervision of a white man, who will be issuing orders with great volubility. 'Put this aboard the king of diamonds; take this to the ace of hearts; load this on the ten of spades; this to the jack of clubs,' and so on, and then you'll notice each one of the long line of freight cars has tacked on it some one of the fifty-two cards composing a full deck. The Senegambian loafers for the most part were ignorant of letters and figures, but every man of them knew the pasteboard emblems which he had often handled in games of seven up. That next to craps is the chief diversion of the colored sports of Dixie."—Baltimore American.

Cruel Spring.

The talk in the village hostelry had been on the subject of vegetable freaks, but at length it veered round to goats.

"Did ever you keep a goat, Bill?" inquired a gray whiskered gentleman in a corner seat.

"Did I ever!" answered the little man addressed with rustic familiarity. "I bought one last Christmas what nearly brought me to the workus. Eat anything, from tins o' blackin' to flatirons, that goat would. Lucky thing for me the spring killed it."

"I didn't know the seasons affected goats," observed the gray whiskered gentleman.

"Who's talkin' about seasons?" came the reply. "It was the spring of our alarm clock what 'e made a meal of one day as done it!"—London Express.

Generally the Case.

"I wish you would mention this to Jinks. It is highly important."

"I'll mention it to him today."

"But how do you know you will see him today?"

"I'm bound to bump into him. I owe him money."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Two Enigmas.

"Why don't we see men like the novelists describe?"

"I give it up. Why don't we see girls like the illustrators draw?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

With this pretty lass so young and fair;
Her step is light, her heart is free,
Since taking Rocky Mountain Tea.—C. M. Parrish.

When C. M. Parrish the enterprising druggist, first offered a 50 cent package of Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia at half price, and guaranteed to return the money if it did not cure, he thought it probable from his experience with other medicines for these diseases that he would have a good many packages returned. But behold he has sold hundreds of bottles, not one has been brought back. This is so surprising that he has taken the contract to introduce Dr. Howard's specific in at least half the homes in Bellefonte and to do that he will continue his special half price introductory offer.

C. M. Parrish wants every person in Bellefonte who has constipation, dyspepsia, headaches, or liver trouble to come to his store or send him 25 cents by mail and get 60 doses of the best medicine ever made at half the regular price with his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure.

To those suffering with dizziness, headache, poor digestion, constipation and straining, Dr. Howard's specific offers quick relief. It is an invaluable boon to all who feel uncomfortable after eating, and is to-day the popular dinner pill in all the large cities.

Bray's Dessert.

By W. F. BRYAN.

Copyrighted, 1908, by M. M. Cunningham.

Dolly dimpled with smiles as a sudden turn in the wooded roadway brought them in sight of the tidal river. The November sun glinted coldly on the ripples formed by the current as it raced toward the sea. The tide was just at the turn, and the water rippled over the shallows in a million gleaming points of light. The pines that surrounded the estuary were still green, and but for the brilliant tints of the scrub oaks Dolly could almost imagine that it was still summer.

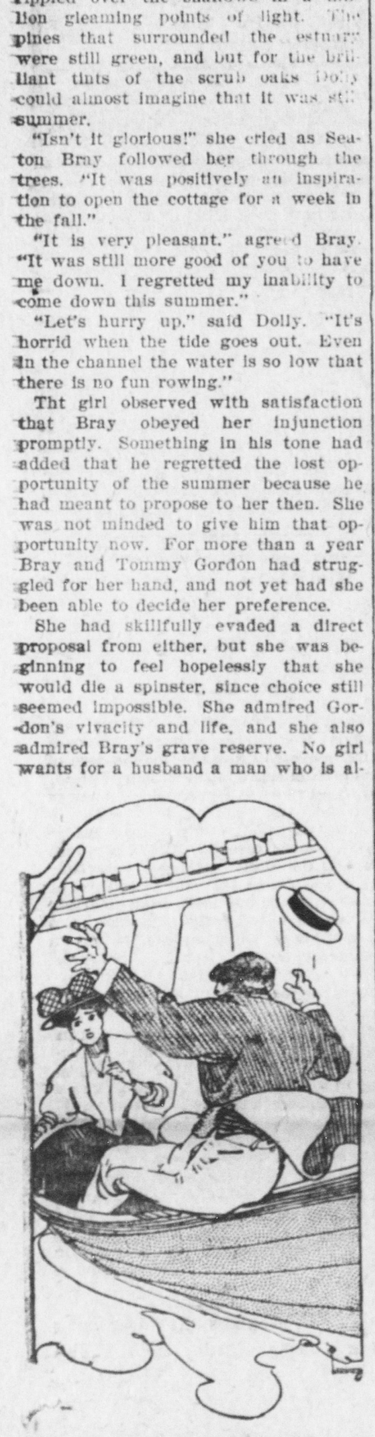
"Isn't it glorious!" she cried as Seaton Bray followed her through the trees. "It was positively an inspiration to open the cottage for a week in the fall."

"It is very pleasant," agreed Bray. "It was still more good of you to have me down. I regretted my inability to come down this summer."

"Let's hurry up," said Dolly. "It's horrid when the tide goes out. Even in the channel the water is so low that there is no fun rowing."

Tht girl observed with satisfaction that Bray obeyed her injunction promptly. Something in his tone had added that he regretted the lost opportunity of the summer because he had meant to propose to her then. She was not minded to give him that opportunity now. For more than a year Bray and Tommy Gordon had struggled for her hand, and not yet had she been able to decide her preference.

She had skilfully evaded a direct proposal from either, but she was beginning to feel hopelessly that she would die a spinster, since choice still seemed impossible. She admired Gordon's vivacity and life, and she also admired Bray's grave reserve. No girl wants for a husband a man who is always a jester, and, on the other hand, Bray sometimes frightened her by his gravity and earnestness.



THE NEXT INSTANT HE FELT THE SHOCK OF COLD WATER.

Nothing ever seemed to upset him. His clothes were always as trimly neat as though he had just left his dressing room, and Gordon had gained a laugh on his rival when he had declared that Bray selected his clothes to match his temper. Both were lacking in violent contrasts. "Peter Perfection" they had all come to call him, and as for Dolly Tatum she was afraid that she could not measure up to his standards.

She watched him as he busied himself with the light skiff, noting the precision of his movements rather than the unhurried speed with which he prepared for the trip. The business suit he had worn down from the city was scarcely a boating costume, and he looked out of place, indeed, as he got the boat ready for the launching. As he helped Dolly to her place in the stern and prepared to shove off the girl leaned back against the seat and gave a sigh of content.

"I love the river," she said as Bray took up the oars. "I could not go back without one more trip. I was on the water every day last summer. It's a shame to drag you out to row."

"I was only too glad to come," said Bray calmly. "In view of the fact that this is the first time in months I have not had to share your society with others I consider myself fortunate indeed."

Dolly's fingers closed over the side of the boat. She had trusted to her skill to avoid personalities, and yet the first speech had led to an opening. There was a dogged look in Bray's face which told that he would not be put off.

"I have been trying to get at this for some time," he went on quietly, not pausing in the strong, even strokes that were carrying them rapidly toward the channel. "I have been seeking an opportunity for putting my fate to the test. You must know that I love you, Dolly. I am not very successful in masking my feelings where you are concerned. Do you think that you could learn to care for me, dear—care for me enough to marry me? I know that I am not as lively as Gordon, but I love you very dearly. Perhaps that should be argued as a point in my favor, though how could I help loving you—I or any other man?"

Dolly's face grew grave, and the tender little mouth took on a droop that made Bray long to kiss it. She did not speak for a few minutes, but looked past the oarsman with eyes that did not see the glorious autumnal panorama. The banks turned a blur of green and yellow and red through the tears that had come unbidden.

Presently she stretched out her hand with a little appealing gesture. "Please don't ask an answer now," she said gently. "Don't spoil the morning—my last row. Perhaps tonight"—

Bray bowed gravely and bent to the oars, finding in the work a vent for the tension within. He fancied that he had already received an answer, and as he bent his back to the oars so also he bent his head to defeat. Almost before they realized it the boat had reached the head of the inlet and had grated gently on the sand.

"Let's drift back," proposed Dolly. "It will give you a chance to rest."

Obediently Bray pulled back into the channel and unshipped the oars. Then he moved forward one seat, and as they floated with the tide he tried to set Dolly at her ease with small talk. So engrossed did they become in their conversation that they never noticed that they were drifting into trouble until with a bump the boat settled against the railroad bridge that spanned the water. A sharp wind was blowing, and it had forced them out of their course.

Bray sprang for an oar to pole back into the channel. In his excitement he was less careful than usual. When he gave a lunge for the oar, he felt his footing shift as the flat bottomed boat tipped to one side. The next instant he felt the shock of cold water.

Dolly gave a shriek as he went overboard, but the next instant her terror was turned to mirth at the sight of Bray sitting in two feet of water with an expression of startled wonder on his face.

It was only for a second that the tableau was posed; then Bray scrambled to his feet and climbed back into the boat. His trousers clung wetly to his legs, and the bedraggled edges of his coat dripped against the seat, while with chattering teeth he got out the oars and began to row for the shore. Try as she would Dolly could not restrain her mirth at the sorry spectacle he presented, and Bray good naturedly joined in her merriment.

But it was less of a joke when the house was reached. The men of the family had all removed their clothing to town when the cottage had been closed for the summer. Bray, down for the day, had brought no bags, and there was nothing left but to seek the shelter of the blankets while his clothes underwent the slow process of drying before the kitchen fire.

Between the blankets Bray groaned miserably as he recalled the incidents of the morning. Whatever chance he might have had to win Dolly's hand had been lost when his plight excited her ridicule. The single misstep had cost him Dolly's "Yes," if indeed he had ever had a chance to win it. In his mind's eye he could see himself again, sprawling in the icy water, then climbing aboard in his mudstained, dripping garments, with Dolly in the stern seat in as ecstasy of glee. It was a bitter hour for Bray, and he welcomed the arrival of the cook with a tray.

"Miss Dolly, she say eat this and you kin have a nice dessert," advised Aunt Mandy. "She say you doan get the dessert till you eated all the dinner."

There was a dish of pudding on the tray, and, lost in wonder as to what the other dessert might be, Bray rapidly cleaned his plate. Then Mandy entered bearing a covered dish. Only an envelope lay under the cover, and Bray's heart beat fast as he read the few lines.

"You dear boy," Dolly wrote. "My answer is 'Yes.' I think I have always liked you best, but I was afraid of your very perfection. I thought that I could never attain your high standard, but you looked so deliciously human in the water that I knew at that instant that I loved you. As soon as your clothes are dry (and they are drying fast), you may come down and receive a verification in person."

It Was His Friend.

A little story in German and English, accompanied by an interpreter, drifted into the Indianapolis News office. Here it is: Two Germans stepped into an auction house where a sale of watches was going on. They occupied front seats and soon attracted the attention of the auctioneer. As he dwelt upon the merits of a watch he was offering for sale to the highest bidder the auctioneer turned to the Germans from time to time as the price mounted—$6, $6.50, $7, $7.50. As the auctioneer nodded at one of the Germans there came an answering nod, which he took to be a bid.

"That feller knows me," said one German to the other.

"Yes, sure," said the other.

The nodding kept on. Finally the auctioneer extended the watch to the nodders. "It's yours," he said. "Ten dollars. You're the buyer."

"Ach, nein," said the German. "I'm the Schwob (Suabian); mein freund heir ist der Bayer (Bavarian)."

He Deserved the Watch.

A little boy who had been promised a watch in a too indefinite future showed a tendency to revert to the subject with a frequency which finally overcame the patience of his irate father. "If you say 'watch' again in my presence I'll thrash you!" was the ultimatum. Next morning at prayers, when each member of the family offered a Bible verse, the boy demurely gave his as he fixed his parent with his eye and repeated, "What I say unto you I say unto all, Watch!"

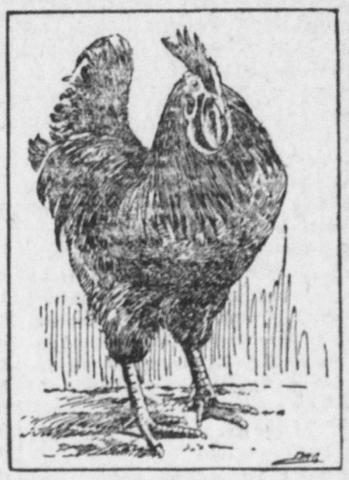
Buff Orpingtons Received With Enthusiasm on Farms.

By A. G. GILBERT.

Long experience has shown that no varieties of fowls are better suited to the requirements of farmers and others than Barred and White Plymouth Rocks, White Wyandottes and Buff Orpingtons. Both Barred Plymouth Rocks and White Wyandottes are to be found in every locality, and eggs from them may be had at reasonable cost. No variety seems to have a greater hold on the farming community than the Barred Plymouth Rock. The Orpingtons are comparatively newcomers, but have rapidly made their way to a first place in the utility class. Particularly may this be said of the buff variety.



BUFF ORPINGTON COCK.

The English group of fowls, among which are the Orpingtons, may be said to embrace many different kinds, and for the most part they have been valued for their egg laying and table qualities. As with the American breeds, the aim seems to have been a combination of egg laying and market types with small frame and superior quality of flesh. In this respect the English and French breeds may be said to be unexcelled. Both nations are also skilled in crossing varieties, with the aim of producing flesh with small frames and a fine quality of meat of white color.

Buff Orpingtons are one of many varieties and probably the most popular of the Orpington family. They are rapidly replacing many wornout strains and mongrels on our farms and have taken a front place in the utility poultry ranks as winter layers and market fowls. There is great demand for eggs and fowls of this breed. They have light colored legs and white flesh. Chickens are hardy and grow rapidly. Eggs are of medium or larger size, according to strain.

White Orpingtons are a most promising variety and are likely to become popular on account of their merits as layers and table fowls. They are not yet well known, but will soon make many friends. Their characteristics are about the same as those of the buff variety, with the exception of the color of the plumage, which is pure white.

BUFF ORPINGTON HEN.

Jubilee, Spangled and Rose Comb Buff and White Orpingtons are varieties of the same family, which are yet in few hands. All claim more or less merit. The buff and white varieties are likely to be first in favor of fanciers and breeders for some time to come, as they are best known and have certainly made a favorable impression.

Species of Alfilaria.

There are about eight species of alfilaria growing in the United States, three being native to the Pacific coast region. The most valuable and the one that has made such progress on the ranges is the red stemmed alfilaria (Erodium cicutarium). This species is a hairy, slightly viscid, erect or ascending herbaceous winter annual from six to eight inches high. Its flowers are lilac or purple, and the plant possesses generally a pronounced musky odor. During the winter it forms a compact, many leaved rosette from ten to twelve inches in diameter, from which the stems are thrown up during the spring months.

For San Jose Scale.

Lime sulphur washes for San Jose scale are suitable only for the treatment of trees which are in a dormant state, being much too strong for application to trees in foliage. Experiments indicate that the best results follow applications in spring just before the growth of the tree begins.

Talked to the Wrong Man.

One day an important looking gentleman took a seat beside a quiet man in an Arkansas railway carriage and began a conversation.

"I'm going up to Little Rock," he said, "to get a pardon for a convicted thief. I'm not personally acquainted with the governor, but he can't afford to refuse me."

"Is the fellow guilty?" asked the man.

"Of course he is. But that makes no difference. His friends have agreed to give me $500 if I get him out, and the thermometer is very low when I can't put up a good talk. Where are you traveling?"

"Going to Little Rock."

"Do you live there?"

"Yes."

"Perhaps you might be of some service to me. What business are you in?"

"I am the governor."—St. Louis Republic.

Too Much For General Butler.

After the battle of Chickamauga an enthusiastic Confederate went about the streets of New Orleans accosting every man who wore the blue with, "Didn't Stonewall Jackson give you blazes at Chickamauga?" General Butler called the exultant Confederate before him and told him he could either take the oath of allegiance or go to Ship island for two years. The Confederate deliberated, but finally agreed to take the oath. When he had sworn to support the constitution, he turned to General Butler and exclaimed, "Now we are both loyal citizens, ain't we, general?"

"Well, I trust so," said General Butler.

"Then," said the jubilant Confederate, "I want to ask you if Stonewall Jackson didn't give us blazes at Chickamauga?"—Argonaut.

Terrapin in London.

A smart American, one of the fresh kind, drifted into the Hotel Cecil in London with a party of five and ordered with pomposity a la dos arrogant Americans, a la Paris: "Say, waiter, I want six portions of Maryland terrapins, an' I want 'em served with the bones. Do you understand?" In three or four minutes the waiter reported. "Sir, we have the pleasure to serve terrapin with grand sherry, but not with the bones." "What in the mischief did you do with the bones?" "The bones? I will ask the cook if you wish." "Never mind. We will have soras en brochette."—New York Press.

Extravagance.

I heard a story lately of a highlander who had been persuaded to buy a ticket for a raffle. He won the first prize, a bicycle, but on being told of his good fortune instead of hugging himself with delight he said: "Weel, that's just ma luck, buying two tickets whan yin wad 'a' done. It's jist a saxpence wasted."—Dundee People's Journal.

POTATO CHARACTER.

Signs of Good Keeping and Good Cooking Quality.

The characteristics of potatoes as to keeping quality and general excellence become very apparent about this time of year and should be borne in mind when the question of seed for another crop comes up.

Potatoes of a corky appearance or touch are usually preferred to the smooth and clear skinned tubers. This appearance or touch is in some instances a variety characteristic, but in general it indicates a degree of maturity or development which promises good cooking quality. On the other hand, the potatoes of smooth and clear skin are oftentimes excessively watery or immature.

The presence of lenticels—that is, bodies of cells which during growth enlarge and rupture the skin—is not objectionable, for they usually indicate normal growth and development in a healthy environment.

In an investigation of the quality of potatoes carried on by J. W. Gilmore at the New York Cornell experiment station parts considered in the physical examination were the surface or skin, the cortical layer or portion immediately under the skin and varying from .1 to .5 inch in thickness, the external medullary area—that is, the main starchy part of the tuber—and the internal medullary area or central portion of the potato, which often branches into the external medullary area and is more or less translucent on account of its high moisture content.

As regards the skin, it was noted that uneven tubers with deep eyes were undesirable for market, while a netted skin indicated maturity and, as a general rule, good quality. A smooth skin indicated immaturity, and hence poor keeping quality and a tendency toward undesirable flavor. Scabby potatoes were often mealy and of good color, but undesirable from the market standpoint. Tubers which had grown in part exposed to the air were heavy and soggy when cooked and of poor color and undesirable flavor.

In general it was found that when the cortical layer is thick and dense the tubers are of poor quality, and this condition is an indication that they grew near the surface, where the temperature and moisture conditions were more variable than deeper in the soil. A uniform external medullary area indicates an even distribution of starch cells and of starch grains within the cell. When this layer is not uniform it is an indication that the starch cells are unevenly distributed and interspersed with watery areas. A large and branching internal medullary area indicates that there is a large proportion of the potato substance which does not contain enough starch grains to rupture the cell walls when the tuber is boiled, and hence a soggy rather than a starchy cooked product results. When the internal medullary area is small it is an indication of uniformity in the starch area and a small proportion of watery substance.

TRANSVERSE SECTION OF POTATO.

If a cough once gets into your system it acts on every muscle and fibre of the body and makes you ache all over. It especially affects the intestines and makes you constipated, so in order to get rid of a cold thoroughly and without delay you should not take anything that will tend to constipate. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts upon the bowels and thereby drives the cold out of the system. It contains no opiates—it is pleasant to take and is highly recommended for children. THE WOMAN WHO COUGHED.

Catarrh had nearly ruined me. It had eaten away the partition in my nose; produced Asthma, Bronchitis, Rheumatism; ruined my stomach; in fact, gone all through my system. Then Grip finished me. I was a wreck; took cold at nothing; and coughed day and night. The doctors dosed me with opium and quinine. No good. Cough "cures" ? Bah! Then Brazilian Balm renovated me. Killed every germ. Took 10 $1.00 bottles. Now I'm like a girl of 18.

SNYDER ON THE STAND

Former Auditor General of the State is a Good Witness

DEFENDS HIS ACTION

Declared that he Endeavored to Safeguard the State's Interest at all Times.

TESTIMONY IS STILL UNFINISHED

Harrisburg, February 22.—Former Auditor-General Snyder, a co-defendant with Sanderson, Shumaker and Mathues, in the capitol conspiracy suit now on trial in the Dauphin county court, spent all day on the witness stand under direct examination.

Snyder's attorneys plied him with questions that affected every transaction with which the former Auditor-General had to do in connection with the capitol furnishing contracts. He refuted in emphatic terms virtually all the testimony of Stanford B. Lewis, Architect Huston's associate, as regarded any suspicious circumstances that tended to establish that he had entered into a conspiracy to cheat and defraud the state.

Snyder declared that he had tested the correctness of all the capitol furnishing bills and in every possible way safeguarded payments made to the contractors, He said he not only required Huston to certify and Sanderson to make affidavits that the bills were correct, but that he had make it his business to write to the architect and contractor demanding an explanation of contract features that were not clear to him.

As regard advance payments to Sanderson for certain furnishings Snyder stated that he had found precedent for such action in similar advances made to the Pennsylvania Construction company for the metallic furniture by the Board of Grounds and Buildings that was in existence before he came into office. He represented that these advances had always been made with the approval of the board, of which he was a member, and that Mathues had introduced a resolution which was adopted and carried with it authority for the payment of money to the contractor before delivery of furnishings. This money, Snyder explained, was deducted from the subsequent Sanderson accounts.

An Old Press.

One of the oldest printing presses in Central Pennsylvania may be seen in the Centre Reporter office. It is an old Washington handpress, manufactured by Robert Hoe, and the lever was pulled by a number of men of distinction, among them ex-Governor Packer, Col. A. K. McClure and Theodore Wright, the latter now editor-in-chief of the Philadelphia Record and president of the Record Publishing Company. This information was obtained from Col. John A. Woodward, who also worked the lever of the press while in use at Williamsport, where the Gazette & Bulletin was printed on it in its early history.—Centre Reporter.

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the indelicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispenses with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of KNOWN COMPOSITION. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound.

If sick consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate and regulate stomach, liver and bowels.

Woman's World

MRS. COBDEN-SANDERSON.

The Noted English Suffragist Who Has Recently Been in America.

The recent visit in this country of Mrs. Cobden-Sanderson of England has revived anew the subject of woman suffrage, a subject never exhausted in the press and the school debating society. The late disturbance in the British parliament when the women suffragist delegates were unjustly dealt with brought about a great deal of discussion and incidentally many facts pointing to the farreaching effects of the movement.

As far as the American woman and suffrage are concerned, there is nobody in this day and hour who will stop to question and argue about her right of suffrage, for the real question is about how long will it be before she gets it.

About Mrs. Cobden-Sanderson a writer in a recent number of the Reader comments as follows:

"The visit to this country of Mrs. Cobden-Sanderson, the woman's suffrage agitator of England, has brought to the realization of some American women as nothing else could do the vitality and determination of the movement in England, 'some,' because it is to be doubted if Mrs. Cobden-Sanderson succeeded in reducing many in her American audiences to earnestness. It is not her desire to address suffrage societies or to talk to those already converted. She wishes to make converts, and as she is likely to become the fashion her talks were given chiefly at the fashionable literary clubs, where all she said was greeted with amused appreciation and a light ironical tolerance. The profound sincerity of her ideas did not deeply move her accomplished audiences, who indeed discussed the charm of her accent, the quaint beauty of her face, the unusual grace of her personality, but who said little or nothing about her message. She was pronounced charming, but she was not regarded as the daughter of the great commoner making a further plea for the rights and duties of commonalty."

MRS. COBDEN-SANDERSON.

Care of the Hair.

There is many a woman who almost entirely owes her claim to good looks to her hair, for if in good condition and well dressed, which means not only fashionably and carefully, but becomingly, it develops the good points of the features and the charm of expression. So much depends on the line of union between the face and the hair. To some women it is all important to have a point descending on the center of the forehead and soft curls falling to the temples, points which the fashionable coiffures of today favor.

It is well to remember that, while the most important, the hairs that border the face and neck are the most delicate. In these days of friction and massage, when the face is being thus attended to, the hair is often suffering. It is injured by frizzing it with the comb to increase its apparent bulk and by trying to draw the hair forward in front by means of a comb after it has been dressed. Many hairs come out with both these processes. Do not comb the hair upward before brushing it; on the contrary, let it assume its most natural pose before dressing it. Part the hair down the center before beginning brushing operations and continue the brushing down from the root to the points. When the hair is thick part it in small strands and brush between. The movement of brushing should be a gentle one, not scouring the scalp, but directed to the hair. Curling on rollers during the night is a strain, but it is not so injurious as the persistent use of hot irons. When face washes are used, it is wise to introduce a little oil on the edges of the hair, so that none of the face creams and tonics find their way on to it. Massage of the scalp and of the line where hair and face meet does wonders. The scalp should not be hard and immovable on the skull, but soft and easily pushed backward and forward, and this can be promoted by moving it gently with the fingers of both hands without interfering with the hair. This increases the circulation of the blood. In time it will bear fruit by the growth of fresh hairs. The hair should be well ventilated so that the air can get to it. If the scalp is inflexible, the vigor of the hair will suffer.

George Kept Him Busy.

A well known Virginia clergyman, one time president of William and Mary college, was married three times, and on each occasion the ceremony was performed by his brother, an even more renowned bishop. When the first marriage took place, the bishop had to refuse a tempting invitation from an old friend because—so the letter ran—"I am going up to Williamsburg on that date to marry my brother George."

The same friend happened to be on the train with him years afterward when he was traveling to the second ceremony. "I am going to marry my brother George," the bishop explained benignly after the business of greetings was over. Again many years passed, and the same journey was taken once more for the same purpose. By a strange coincidence the identical friend ran into the bishop as they hurried through the depot to their respective trains. "Where going, bishop?" the former sang out as they grasped hands and dashed by each other.

"I am going where I am always going," the answer came back ponderously, "to marry my brother George!"—Harper's Weekly.

Madras Curtains.

It will not be long before lace curtains will be only something to recall as a past fancy in household decorations, just as we remember the gold vases, enlarged pictures and picture throws. The lace curtains which will remain, if they do at all, will be fine, expensive and genuine luxuries. The reason for this is because madras and other materials of like kind are fast taking the place of the fragile, lacy drapery; not wholly for window purposes, but portieres and the like are they used. Silks are used for the windows and some of the finest meshed nets and many exquisite striped materials which are like sheer dress fabrics. The tapestry effects in madras are beautiful and suit well the rich house furnishings. Some of the patterns are as rich in appearance as any of the oriental fabrics of rare materials and great value and not very expensive only in the finer grade of madras fabrics. Madras is of different grades, colors and widths, with prices ranged accordingly.

The Use of Cologne.

The most inveterate hater of perfumes could not overlook the real usefulness of cologne or some good toilet water. The beauties of ancient times who reveled in aromatic baths knew better than many moderns the refreshment to tired nerves to be found in this practice. If you have not yet been educated quite up to the standard of an entire aromatic bath, the next time you come in tired from a day's shopping try spraying yourself with cologne after a hot bath. You will be absolutely astonished to find how completely your fatigue has flown.

How to Sit Gracefully.

When sitting be sure that your hips are never brought farther forward than your shoulders. The proper way is to get your hips as far back as possible in the chair and firmly settled there. Then you can imagine the upper part of your body a stem swaying as it will. You can bend forward or sideways, but you will never want to bend back, and even if you grow to be stout you will still look well when sitting, and if you want to lean back in a steamer chair you may even be graceful.

In the Sickroom.

Good cheer is better than medicine. The jest has an important part to play as a remedy for irritability.

Don't tell long stories.

Don't rehash other people's trials.

Don't think up miserable possibilities.

Order, observation and obedience are three cardinal virtues in a nurse.

Add to these tact, the want of which is the base of nearly every sin a nurse may commit.

For Wet Rubbers.

Get an empty candy bucket with a lid. Cut a little off the lid so it will slip part way into the bucket. Bore a few holes in the lid. You can do this with a redhot poker. When you take your rubbers off all full of snow or water, put them on the lid of the bucket, and all the water will run through the holes into the bucket instead of on the porch or floor.

For Woman Suffrage.

Collier's Weekly has come out for woman suffrage in a leading editorial, and the Woman's Journal declares this the most notable journalistic recruit that the cause has gained since the North American Review took a similar stand some months ago.

If the rims of the finger nails refuse to look clear and well kept despite all one's care, try dipping the ends of the fingers in a half lemon every day or two. Let them stay in the acid for five minutes, then rinse thoroughly in water as hot as can be endured, wipe carefully and polish with a good nail powder.

—Deputy White is meeting with great success in organizing a lodge of the Knights of the Modern Maccabees in this town. Mr. White organized a tent in Juniata last month with 75 charter members and in Butler with 190 and in Washington with 103. The prospects are that Bellefonte will reach the 100 mark.

—The Bellefonte Electric company has remodled and increased the equipment with the intention of starting a day service if enough patrons can be secured to meet expenses. In the near future they expect to give an exhibition in Bellefonte to show what can be done with electricity with all modern appliances.

—Landlord Aaron Kyler of the Irvin House, Lock Haven, was swindled out of $75 by the clever forgery of B. M. Averett of Riehmond, Va. The said Averett had lodged at the Irvin house over night and offered the check in payment of his bill. Mr. Kyler cashed it and the E. P. Taylor company of Richmond, on whom it was forged refused it and it was protested.

—A movement is now on foot among ome of the Bellefonte merchants and clerks to continue the closing of the stores at six o'clock throughout the whole year instead of a period during the summer. The present agreement expires about the middle of next month and it is the object of those interested to make arrangements whereby the six o'clock closing will contine the same at present.

—Considerable damage was done at Orvis, and in that vicinity, by the recent flood. The frame trestle work just erected over Beech Creek by the Central Brick and Tile company, was torn down by the flood, and some of the timber floated away. At Hayes Run station the wagon bridge was swept away, and two spans of the railroad bridge over Hayes Run were torn down. The damage in that locality will amount to at least $1,000.

—Wake up. Get into the Academy's voting contest and make it interesting from the start. The more votes you cast the more you are helping to secure an athletic field for Bellefonte. If the sporting element of the town does not contribute to this project who will. Cast in a few votes today and help swell the fund. Then keep at it and get others to help. Bellefonte must have an athletic field and Bellefonters must raise the funds. Don't depend all on the Academy. They originated the project but all Bellefonte must assist.

—The euchre at the St. John's Catholic hall on Thursday evening was a very enjoyable affair and much interest was taken in the playing. Wilson Gephart won the gentleman's first prize and James Weaver the second. Mrs. Barnhart succeeded in capturing the ladies first prize and the second was awarded to Mrs. Herman Holtz. For the booby prize Miss Edna Williams and Stanley Plechecki were tie and in a final play-off it fell to Miss Williams. There will be another euchre next this evening. All are invited.

—A party of young married ladies of Coleville enjoyed a sleigh ride to the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wian the other day. Mrs. Snyder Tate acted as chaperon while Mr. Tate handled the ribbons. Splendid music was furnished and the excellent oyster supper served by the hostess was enjoyed by all. An amusing incident on the return home was an upset and the losing of one of the young ladies on the road. She was found later unhurt.

—The biggest nuisance on the streets these days is a bunch of boys with snowballs and a lack of reasonable common sense and judgment. If they paid their compliments to their own kind only, no fault would be found, but they make it decidedly uncomfortable for men and women passing, and what is particularly bad visitors to town in vehicles are made victims. Boys who use their think-works properly do not engage in this sort of unmanly conduct.

—The men's mass meeting in the Court House Sunday was largely attended and the services were very inspiring. The meeting was opened with a song service conducted by Secretary Meserve and scripture reading by James Hughes. Prayer was made by Rev. Barshinger. The music by the ladies' quartette was of a high order and much appreciated by those in attendance. The address by Hon. E. L. Orvis was very timely both for the occasion and for present day social conditions. Judge Orvis' main thought was the proper training of our youth. Every one present considered his remarks very practical.

—A young man who claims he is from Bellefonte was arrested in Lock Haven Sunday for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He had on his person a loaded revolver and will have to answer to the charge of carrying concealed weapons. It is not known who the young man was.

—We notice that in some places Washington's birthday has been turned into a day of jollification rather than a day to be observed in patriotic instruction. The new feature they have adopted is a mummer's parade. Seems to us there would not be much patriotic sentiment expressed in a parade of fantastics and nothing of the character of Washington.

—Mr. and Mrs. Donald McLean, of New York City, gave the Daughters of the American Revolution an invitation to attend the marriage of their daughter Miss Bessie to Lieutenant William Adam Dallan of the Twelfth United States Cavalry. Wreck on the B and O.

Connellsville, Pa., Feb. 25.—Train No. 9 from New York to Pittsburg on the B. & O. railroad was wrecked at Salisbury Junction, 40 miles east of here, at 5 o'clock Saturday morning. With the exception of the engine, mail car and first baggage car the entire train was derailed.

Rudolph Leonard, of the University of New York, was injured by being thrown from his birth. The passengers of the wrecked train reached Pittsburg on another train.

While all were seriously shaken up by the accident, Professor Leonard was the only one seriously hurt.

Gave It Up.

A friend of the writer recently made application for a public appointment in a small Scottish town, and, thinking that his chances of success would be greater by a little judicious canvassing, he resolved to call upon a few of the town councilors, in whose hands the appointment lay. Of the civic dignitaries' position in private life he knew nothing. Journeying to the town in question, he hired a cab at the railway station and requested the jehu to take him to Councilor Bisset's, the treasurer. The councilor was found in his blacksmith's shop shoeing a horse.

"I'll see somebody of more importance than this, anyhow," said the candidate to himself, and, turning to the driver, he said, "Drive me to Councilor Maitland's office."

The cabman thereupon drove him to the local joiner's shop. This was worse even than the smithy, and in despair he ejaculated:

"Drive me to Councilor Gray's."

"I am Councilor Gray, sir," replied the cabman.

The answer staggered the candidate. He quietly paid his fare and disappeared, resolved to leave his fate in their hands without prejudicing them in any way in his favor. — London Standard.

When Life Was Little Valued.

The 223 capital offenses which the old English law recognized as punishable by death did not keep down crime, and with the abolition of the death penalty for all crimes but murder crime in England, as well as everywhere else all over the world where the death penalty has been modified, lessened markedly, notes the Boston Traveler.

Edmond Burke said that he could in his time obtain the assent of the house of commons to any bill that carried the death punishment.

A man's life was not very valuable in those strenuous days. If he scratched his name on Westminster bridge, if he wore a wig or false mustache or any other disguise on a public road, if he cut down a young tree, if he stole property worth more than $1.25, if he had been transported for crime and returned a day ahead of the expiration of his term of punishment, if he wrote a threatening letter, if he stole a hide from a tanner's, for any and all of these things and for 200 more than these he was hanged by the neck until he was dead.
